I'll Try My Best —Taylor

TORONTO (CP)—Lord Taylor, on his way to advise the Saskatchewan government on the provincial medical care dispute, said Monday it will be difficult for him to be impartial but he will try his best.

Care Fight Goes On

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan government and many of the province's citizens Monday were stepping up efforts to counteract effects of a doctors' boycott of the provincial medical care plan.

OWN CLINICS

In Saskatoon another flood of British doctors recruited by the government began registering for licences to practise under the plan. (See also Page 3.)

In a number of centres throughout the province, citizens were setting up their own co-ops.

Watch Language Chiefs Tell CBC

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC has been told to watch its dramatic language.

The instructions are contained in a "good taste" policy for radio and TV drama, drawn up by the government-appointed CBC board of directors.

The policy, made public Monday in the annual CBC report, says the CBC should continue "avant garde" and other "special kind" of drama, but special consideration must be given to language.

NO EXAMPLES

The report did not cite examples but, last February, Conservative MP Edwin Brunson of Medicine Hat said he had received letters describing one program in the series Quest as "disgusting," "absolutely immoral" and "garbage." This was the play Crawling Arnold.

The CBC said yesterday the experimental Quest series likely would return in the fall at the same time, 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

Peru Cabinet Walks Out Over Crisis

LIMA (AP)—Premier Morúa Pazo's cabinet resigned last night as a result of Peru's presidential election crisis.

One official said the nation's military chiefs would take over the government, probably today. Morúa announced the cabinet resignations after his second emergency meeting with President Manuel Prado in 24 hours.

FRAUD CLAIMED

An unconfirmed report said the cabinet quit in a body after Prado refused to annul the results of the June 16 presidential elections which the armed forces claimed were marred by fraud.

The nation's military leaders turned thumbs down on victor Raul Haya de la Torre, leader of the popular revolutionary alliance, who was the top man in popular votes.

Churchill Out of Bed

LONDON (UPI)—Sir Winston Churchill is making such satisfactory progress he has been allowed out of bed to sit in a chair, a hospital bulletin said Monday.

The hospital announced no further bulletin will be issued until Friday. There are no immediate plans for Churchill to go home.

Macbeth Too Gory?

SWANSEA, Wales (CP)—A film company's invitation for school children to see a movie of Macbeth was turned down by the Swansea education committee. A member said the famous work was "full of blood and thunder," and Shakespeare wrote it "after a thick night."

De Gaulle Backed By Parliament In A-Force Bid

PARIS (Reuters)—President de Gaulle early Monday won a parliamentary victory in favor of his policy of developing an independent French nuclear deterrent.

After a debate in the National Assembly that lasted until nearly 1 a.m., a motion of censure against the government's nuclear policy was defeated.

LITTLE SHORT

A total of 208 deputies voted for the motion of censure—35 short of the majority needed to pass it.

Before the vote was taken, Premier Georges Pompidou made a full-scale defence of a French nuclear strike force, describing it as a service to NATO and France's Western European allies.

NOT CRITICIZED

Answering charges that an independent French deterrent would be a danger to the NATO alliance, Pompidou said both the United States and Britain had their own deterrent and were not criticized for it.

"Far from weakening the alliance," Pompidou said, "it will strengthen it—by its existence and by the fact that it will be controlled by a country exposed to the first danger."

Vertigo Vanquished

Latest high-jump technique for people who can't stand heights is demonstrated by Darlene Durant, 7, as she goes over bar with hands over eyes at Vancouver junior track meet. She made jump of two feet, two inches—not quite enough to win. —(CP photo.)

'Don't Fence Varsity With High-Rise Wall'

Victoria University would be hemmed in "along the lines of the Berlin wall" if high-rise apartments are permitted nearby, an alumni official said yesterday.

Robert Gray, president of the local university alumni association, registered a protest to Saanich council against consideration of rezoning property near the Gordon Head campus for high-rise apartment use. The alumni executive feels such developments would detract from the natural beauty of the university and eventually result in a general commercialization of the area. He said in a letter to Saanich council, read at last night's meeting.

Albania Russia Make Up

LONDON (Reuters)—Albania warmly praised the Soviet Union Monday in a statement apparently aimed at sounding a note of reconciliation following a heated ideological quarrel between the two countries.

Albanian Premier Mehmet Shehu told the National Assembly in Tirana that Albania will be very grateful to the Soviet Union and other Communist countries for their aid.

His statement came amid reports that Russia and Albania have agreed to let up in their angry public exchanges that began in earnest last October when Soviet Premier Khrushchev denounced Albanian leaders at the 22nd Soviet Communist Party Congress in Moscow. Shehu said Albania "has never and will never accept credits and aid from the imperialists."

Soviets Claim Goodwill Act

GENEVA (Reuters)—The Soviet Union modified its draft disarmament treaty Monday in an "act of goodwill" that Western delegates said conceded no major point.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin told the 17-nation disarmament conference here that his "additions and clarifications," which affected only conventional weapons, met "the position of the Western powers in a number of important questions halfway." He said he hoped the West would react by agreeing speedily on a treaty.

POSITION INTACT

But Western spokesmen pointed out that the modifications left intact the Soviet position that all nuclear weapons delivery vehicles must be destroyed and all foreign military bases dismantled in the first stage of disarmament.

On the question of a nuclear test-ban treaty, being considered separately by a three-nation subcommittee of the conference, Zorin also conceded nothing.

DIFFER ROLES

Following Saturday's hint by chief American delegate Arthur Dean that the West might drop its insistence on control points on Soviet territory, hopes had risen that the Soviet Union, too, might make concessions and a test moratorium could be agreed on.

The Soviet modifications, involving only the Soviet draft treaty for general and complete disarmament of March 15, included a number of concessions to the American draft treaty.

Zorin told the conference the Soviet Union now was willing to accept the U.S. position on the gradual reduction of conventional weapons.

Another arrival at the western Algerian city was Col. Houari Boumedienne, who has flouted Premier Ben Khedda's recent order dismissing him as chief of staff of the 40,000-man national liberation army.

Arrival of the two leaders in Tiemcen came as the political kettle here reached the boiling point, with both sides calling crisis meetings Monday night.

SECRET MEETINGS

Meanwhile, the provisional government's Information Minister Mohammed Yazid said secret meetings were continuing between chiefs of the six politico-military commands which now wield most of the power in independent Algeria.

An informed source close to Ben Bella said in Tiemcen that if Ben Bella's faction came to power the Franco-Moors pact might be scrapped.

Dissidents Merge In Algeria

ALGERIA (Reuters)—Former provisional premier Ferhat Abbas re-entered the Algerian political arena Monday to cast his lot with dissident Vice-Premier Mohammed Ben Bella.

Abbas, who for three years headed the Algeria provisional government until replaced last summer by Ben Youssef Ben Khedda, joined Ben Bella at the latter's headquarters in Tiemcen.

FLOUTED ARRIVAL

Another arrival at the western Algerian city was Col. Houari Boumedienne, who has flouted Premier Ben Khedda's recent order dismissing him as chief of staff of the 40,000-man national liberation army.

Arrival of the two leaders in Tiemcen came as the political kettle here reached the boiling point, with both sides calling crisis meetings Monday night.

RED DEER (CP)—Robert Thompson said Monday night he was "not dissatisfied at all" with the party's showing.

Only 92 Votes Stormont Goes Liberal

LUCIEN LAMOUREUX
... slim margin

GRANT CAMPBELL
... seeks recount

CORNWALL, Ont.

(CP)—Lawyer Lucien Lamoureux won Stormont riding for the Liberals Monday with a scant 92-vote margin over Grant Campbell, seeking re-election for the Conservatives.

Mr. Campbell announced immediately that he will seek a recount.

The other two candidates in the four-way contest, Mel Rowat of Social Credit and Mrs. Marjorie Ball of the New Democratic Party, trailed far behind.

FINAL FIGURES

Final figures from the 139 polls: Mr. Lamoureux 11,661. Mr. Campbell 11,569. Mr. Rowat 1,297. Mrs. Ball 970.

The Stormont voting was deferred from June 18 when the rest of Canada voted because Albert Lavigne, Liberal nominee, died after nominations had been held.

REDUCE PLURALITY

Monday's result reduced the PC's plurality over the Liberals in the 285-seat Parliament to 16 seats. The standings: PC 116, Liberal 100, Social Credit 30, NDP 18.

The Burnaby-Coquitlam seat in British Columbia, won by Erhart Regier, NDP, June 18 became vacant Monday when Mr. Regier resigned to make possible a by-election in which T. C. Douglas, NDP leader, will seek election to Parliament.

Monday's winner was executive assistant to Lionel Chevrier, transport minister in the St. Laurent Liberal administration. Mr. Chevrier, who sat for Stormont for 19 years in the House of Commons, now represents Montreal Laurier.

"I don't believe it," was Mr. Lamoureux' first comment after hearing the result. He added: "It makes me feel very good."

Mr. Campbell, also a lawyer, had no immediate comment except to say he will seek a recount.

TIGHT BATTLE

The election was a battle between Mr. Lamoureux and Mr. Campbell from the counting of the first poll.

The lead changed hands several times, with neither candidate ever having a sizable margin over the other.

FIGURES FINAL

Apart from possible changes in a recount, Monday's figures are final since there is no separate service vote in deferred elections or by-elections.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Senator G. S. Thorvaldson, national president of the Progressive Conservative party, said Monday he was "not wholly unhappy with the result" in Stormont.

The Manitoba senator said "I believe that the strong support given in this ordinarily hostile area proves that the government program since June 18 is meeting with generally favorable response in Canada."

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal leader Pearson said Monday night the party victory in the deferred Stormont election is a "further condemnation of the Diembaizer government and it emphasizes the absolute necessity of that government, which is a minority government, calling Parliament together immediately."

RED DEER (CP)—Robert Thompson said Monday night he was "not dissatisfied at all" with the party's showing.

Oxygen Lack Kills Balloon Monkeys After Canada Trip

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (UPI)—Two rhesus monkeys and four hamsters, sent on a 25-mile-high balloon ride to help pave the way for a manned trip to the moon, were found dead Monday after their capsules parachuted to earth in a Canadian swamp.

Scientists from the aeronautical laboratory in Sunnyvale, Calif., said the animals died because of failure of the "life support system" that included control of their oxygen supply and temperature.

LACK OF OXYGEN

They said the animals might have died from lack of oxygen or freezing. They hoped to determine the exact cause, and the reason for the malfunction, in studies at Goose Bay, Labrador.

The 1,500-mile flight beneath a balloon 300 feet wide and 34 feet tall was the first of five planned to check the effects of cosmic radiation on future moon travellers.

BEYOND FLIGHT

The second flight had been planned for Thursday, starting from Goose Bay, but an AMES spokesman said it might be delayed until studies of the first failure are completed.

The next flight was to carry two more monkeys and four hamsters, immature flower beetles, plus material for "additional biological experiments," he said.

MAKE SURE

"We want to learn from this one, and make sure it doesn't happen again," said Brad Evans of AMES. "The capsules with the animals and the instruments are being flown to Goose Bay and will be analyzed there. The first thing we are concerned with is the cause of death."

The animals were doomed in every event. The brains of the monkeys were to be sectioned into 15,000 ultra-thin slivers to check for cosmic ray damage. The hamsters were to be checked for changes in their reproductive cells.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it was the most extensive radiation research program ever conducted by high altitude balloons.

But a public health official said Monday the quantity of radioactivity detected was not considered damaging or dangerous. It did not warrant switching the babies from fresh to canned or powdered milk.

WASHINGTON (CP)—A number of U.S. babies acquired medical problems after increased radioactivity in their thyroid glands.

But a public health official said Monday the quantity of radioactivity detected was not considered damaging or dangerous. It did not warrant switching the babies from fresh to canned or powdered milk.

Late last month, after alarm had been raised in the Midwest about contamination from U.S. nuclear testing in the atmosphere, the U.S. government flew 20 babies and their parents from Kansas City and St. Louis to New York for special scientific analysis of possible radioactivity in their thyroids.

Dr. Merrill Eisenbud of New York University, who made the analysis, later cautiously reported that there was no reason for alarm; that while the radioactivity in the Kansas City babies was found to be higher than in those from St. Louis, both groups and their parents were considered to be "within a range of relative safety."

B.C. Cool Over Bridge Dirge

VANCOUVER (CP)—A folk song about Vancouver's Second Narrows Bridge tragedy rising to the top of the hit parade in all parts of the U.S. and Canada—except B.C.

The song, Steel Men, tells how 18 steelworkers died when the bridge collapsed while under construction in June, 1958.

The record's distributor in B.C. and Vancouver radio stations may the record is in poor taste.

E. R. Gordon, who heads the company that distributes the record in B.C. for Columbia

Records, said: "We believe the record might be fine for every where else in Canada but not here."

"We understand the record is enjoying good sales everywhere else but we have no intention of pushing it here," Local radio stations played it and dropped it through public opinion.

"Most of the listeners agreed the song was in poor taste," one official said. "It has a catchy tune and the lyrics aren't bad but the tragedy has too many bad memories for Vancouverites."

Manoeuvres, Not Records

'Bucking Bronco' Ride Given U.S. Rocket Ship

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)—Test pilot Joe Walker, his composure unruffled despite extreme cockpit heat, gave the X15 a "bucking bronco" ride Monday in his 13th successful flight in the rocket ship.

At one point, Walker succeeded by tricky manoeuvring in cutting the speed of the X15 in half—from 2,200 miles to 1,100 miles an hour.

Walker didn't set any record in Monday's flight, instead concentrating on seven series of pull-up, push-over manoeuvres to test flight pressure and stability of the highly successful experimental X15.

The flight was to have been part of a doubleheader, but the scheduled altitude attempt by Maj. Bob White was delayed until today because of technical troubles.

19 Men, Four Weeks

They Finally Fixed the Gas Leak

By EDDY GILMORE

LEICESTER, England (AP)—Britain's nationalized gas industry began an investigation Monday into why it took 19 workers four weeks to repair one tiny leak in a stove.

What happened was this: Retired school teacher Ada Scott telephoned the East Midlands gas board that there was a small leak in her stove.

From that point on, Miss Scott kept a diary of the arrivals and departures of the gas men:

May 3—Two men arrive, remove the stove and install a smaller one.

May 4—Two men deliver a second stove. They leave it in the backyard.

May 5—Man calls to investigate.

May 7—Man calls and says the second stove was delivered by mistake. Later in the day two men arrive to install the second cooker, but go away without doing it.

May 8—Two men return, Miss Day's original stove and leave it in the yard beside the second cooker.

May 15—Two men remove the second stove.

May 21—Two men call for the first stove. Then they announce they are not authorized to disconnect it.

Later on May 21 another man arrives, disconnects the first stove that was on loan; re-installs the original stove, but leaves the first stove in the yard.

May 28—Two men take away the stove from the yard.

May 30—A man calls to see if everything is all right.

At that point, Miss Day got angry and complained to the gas board.

Sunday an official called to apologize.

Said Miss Scott: "I complained because I thought it outrageous to have 19 men in the house to sort out such a small matter."

A spokesman for the gas board commented: "We just can't understand how all this has arisen. A full-scale investigation has been ordered."

Khrushchev Brags Of Rocket Arsenal

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Khrushchev claims Russia has a rocket arsenal that is unbeatable both on the offense and defence.

The Soviet leader said in an interview released here Monday that on defence Russia has an anti-rocket missile which can "hit a fly in outer space."

INDESTRUCTIBLE

And on offence, he claimed "we actually have a global rocket which cannot be destroyed by any anti-rocket means," including a high-altitude nuclear explosion such as was carried out over the Pacific last week by the United States.

Khrushchev disclosed the power of the Soviet rocket arsenal in a 2½-hour interview Friday with 14 American newspaper executives.

About a quarter of the 9,000-word interview was devoted to Berlin—an issue on which Khrushchev said "there is much in common" in the Soviet-American positions.

He repeated his warning that Russia will eventually sign a peace treaty with Communist East Germany, but added "I will not set any time limit."

Khrushchev said the Berlin issue "remains as a tick which has not been plucked out of healthy flesh."

Discouraging Start

THE REOPENED 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva has started on a discouraging note of Soviet intransigence on the question of a nuclear test-ban treaty, casting further doubt on Moscow's intention to use the talks as anything but a forum for anti-Western propaganda.

If ever there had been a time for a show of willingness to compromise, it was now, for the United States and Britain went fully half-way in their opening proposal to drop their demand for international nuclear test control posts on Soviet territory in return for Russian acceptance of compulsory inspection at actual test sites.

This concession to the Soviet Union—which in 1958 agreed to the basic principle that international control would be essential, but last summer did one of its too-familiar about-faces and ruled out such control as a form of espionage and completely unacceptable—was patently made possible from the Western point of view by an improvement in underground atomic explosion detection techniques.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk in a press conference last week, speaking of recent detection experiments, said guardedly:

"I do want to point out that so far as what has been said and what I myself know, this will not bring about or cannot bring about at this stage a complete substitution of instrumentation for control posts in large countries such as the Soviet Union or the United States or a number of on-site inspections. It may greatly simplify the problem, but it does not eliminate such arrangements as far as we can tell. If the other side objects on principle to any control posts or any on-site inspections, then we will have a very large problem, but the experiments themselves may help, but whether it will close the gap depends on whether the gap is between anything and zero, because in the terms of on-site inspections, so far it has been indicated that they would be rejected by the other side."

It will be seen thus that the West went further than might have been expected in its initial compromise proposal, and the Soviet Union cannot be credited with any real interest in bringing about an international ban on nuclear tests when Deputy Foreign Minister Zorin so abruptly dashed the offer to the ground.

What more can the Western powers do? One begins to suspect that even if a nuclear test ban on the Soviet Union's own conditions of national control were offered by the United States and Britain, Moscow would suddenly find insurmountable detriments in such a plan. That has been the pattern since disarmament discussions began.

A Fitting Gesture

IN A gesture that shows the continuing kinship with the community that fills its ranks the Canadian Scottish Regiment has offered to send its pipes and drums as a highlight for Victoria Day at the Seattle world's fair, Sept. 15.

It is a happy idea that would buttress the presence of the mayor with a contingent which not only typifies the Canadian military pattern but reflects the nature of the ties a militia unit has with its own area. The Canadian Scottish for 30 years and more has been part of the warp and woof of this city; many of its officers and men throughout these years have been prominent in local affairs, including the aldermanic board itself.

The pipes and drums of the Scottish, also, form one of the best pipe bands in the country, as their enthusiastic reception when they play here and elsewhere amply attests.

They would cut a splendid collective figure at the Seattle fair in their picturesque Highland dress and be an attraction that would do Victoria much credit. Attending as they would be with the dual accolade of military and civilian representation they would emphasize something of the community spirit to be found here. The mayor could not have a finer escort.

It is to be hoped suitable arrangements can be made to ensure that the regiment's offer is accepted and that nothing intervenes to prevent this. One imagines that Seattle fair officials would be delighted to have this symbol of Victoria as a feature of the day set aside in honor of its neighboring city.

Drastic Shake-Up

IT IS a measure of the dampened image of the Macmillan regime that the British prime minister should sweep one-third of his cabinet colleagues out of office at one time. No upset of this nature has been quite so drastic in recent times.

Unlike the Canadian scene, wherein few ministers are ever dropped no matter their sins of omission or commission, British cabinets are not infrequently subject to change. More usually this takes the form of musical chairs, as it were, with ministers changing portfolios rather than being fired. Nor are resignations on matters of principle unknown; Westminster is much more resilient than Ottawa in this respect.

Seldom does such a ruthless purge, as it is being described in British circles, take place, however, and patently this is a somewhat desperate effort to restore public confidence in the Macmillan government. It is not finished, apparently; the axe has also fallen on other, non-cabinet, members of the administration.

The Conservatives have been in power in Britain now for the past 11 years, and by some loss of public support is inevitable. Not that by-elections show it swinging to the major alternative group, the Labor Party, itself divided within on many questions damaging its image. It is the upsurge of Liberal support at recent polls that is causing the Conservatives concern. This does not threaten to restore the one-time Liberal greatness but it may easily be a deciding factor in many ridings in the next general election.

The cabinet shake-up will be an indication that Mr. Macmillan is looking ahead to an election next year, preparing the way with a revamped cabinet he hopes will present a new look and restore confidence and better his chances of being returned to office. Some observers speculate Mr. Macmillan himself may be thinking of retiring, since he has named an heir-apparent by giving Mr. Butler the unusual dignity of deputy prime minister, although that would be an abdication not in keeping with his character.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and shoes,
and seeing best ...

By TOM TAYLOR

HAD I not personal memories of fleeing to the pavilion before an invading horde of spectators, or of being stoned in a charabanc by irate opposition supporters, I might have felt superior as I read in Liberty of the feverish atmosphere in which soccer is played in Toronto and Montreal. Passions run high.

They do of course in other games to which Canadians are more accustomed, as will be some visible again on the small screen of a Saturday night when ice hockey takes over for the winter.

But perhaps with less spectator intervention, apart from the assortment of old shoes, programs, orange peel, et al, which not infrequently add to the gaiety of a hockey game.

In the East, I read, the soccer fans are termed fanatics, an extension of the word which bespeaks the zeal with which New Canadian enthusiasts follow their favorite game. They have brought their separate ethnic cultures with them to meet in combat, as it were, on the common ground which this game provides.

So much so that when one Toronto team wins, this puts the Italian community in a good mood in such a good mood the moment is propitious for asking for a raise, or popping the question to one's isomorate. Not dissimilar this from the account I read of Bernley's recent appearance in the English Cup final last spring.

In that industrial town work lags or spurts on a Monday according to the team's fortunes on the previous Saturday.

Thus, you see, do fervent soccer fans take the game to heart. Even a decade ago when the Cougars were in full flower here I doubt that Victorians indulged in such mental downs and ups.

I had not thought it needful, however, to describe soccer in quite the detail the Liberty author seems to consider necessary. Most Canadians, of course, if not brought up to the virtues of this particular game, are well aware for instance that the object is to put the ball in the net. One look at an empty field would convince anyone that the aim must be similar to that of lacrosse or hockey. But not "without tackling," as this writer puts it, else the game has recently undergone an amazing transformation.

Continental, and Latin Americans, don't take kindly to tackling, as is well-known, a circumstance which if seeming to shrink from the robust has enabled them to raise the artistic standards of soccer to new heights. In the realm of high professional attainment it is the fluidity of their technique and expertise of ball control that puts them at the top of the world tree, as witness the recent World Cup tournament in Chile.

It should be a truism but no one before the Liberty writer has made the precise point that whereas in other sports—hockey, football, basketball, etc.—one set of limbs attends to locomotion and the other to ball, bat or stick, in soccer the legs (plus the feet) must do all the chores.

This is scarcely as he suggests a "well-imposed handicap," since if it were otherwise soccer wouldn't be soccer, and the proposition seems as natural as apple pie to boys who grow up with the game. For them it is the "way of life" that the new Continental Canadians have brought with them.

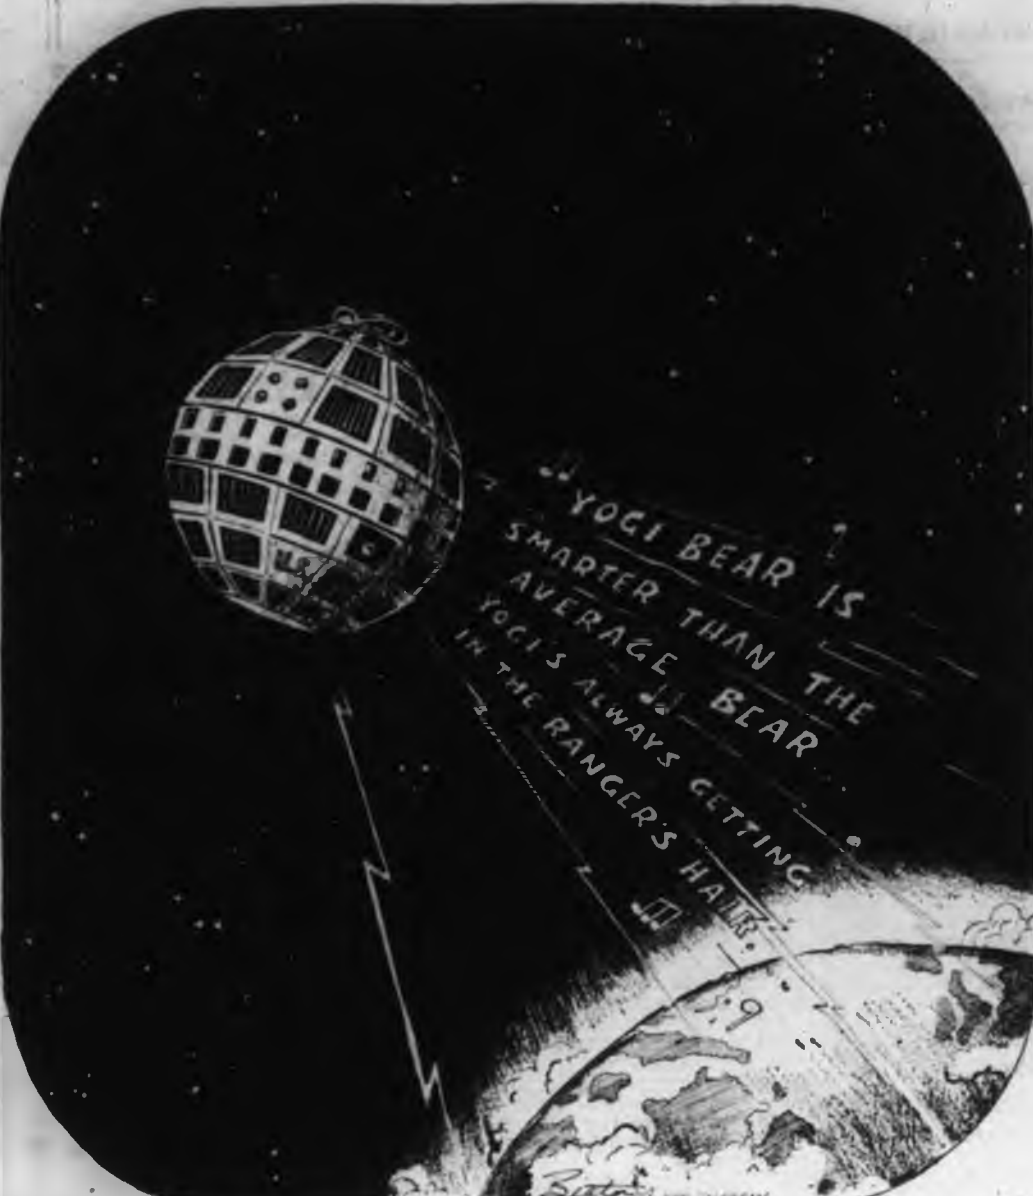

One needs to learn a game in boyhood to be proficient at it in manhood, with very few exceptions at least, and it is because soccer has never been a national game in this respect that it remains mainly the prerogative of newcomers who bring their skills with them. Soccer is played in Canada by the young—Victoria is an example—but there is not the continuing avenues of development that is associated with games native to the North American continent.

North America in fact is fast becoming the one area in the world where soccer does not flourish as a major sport, which might suggest it is insular and out of step with the international scene.

If ever it does adopt the game with the enthusiasm rampant elsewhere possibly the New Canadians will be responsible. But their sons, to be more apt, and naturally so, to take to the game that have for long been part and parcel of the Canadian athletic ethos.

The Anatomy of Social Credit

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

By winning 38 House of Commons seats in the recent general election, 28 of them in Quebec, Social Credit has emerged as Canada's third-ranking political party. This article is the first of a series examining Social Credit's past, present and future.

DURING the last election campaign, Social Credit orators harangued election audiences from coast to coast, juggling slogans, catch phrases, promises, admonitions, nationalism and religious fervor with remarkable dexterity.

In the van of the hardy band was the party's national leader, Mr. Robert Thompson, of Red Deer, Alta. But throughout the campaign, he was overshadowed by the fiery, flamboyant Real Caouette, whom Mr. Thompson defeated for the national leadership in 1961. In nine provinces, Mr. Caouette was billed as Mr. Thompson's French-speaking deputy. But in Quebec, he preferred to be known as the "co-leader" of the Social Credit party. It may well have been an understatement of magnificent proportions.

There was nothing, apparently, that Social Credit could not do if placed in a position of power. Taxes would and could be slashed.

Social security and other benefits could and would be increased.

"We can wipe out Canada's debt just as it was created—by a stroke of the pen."

Business and industry would benefit from special tax incentives.

The party could guarantee a dollar's worth of purchasing power for a dollar's worth of production.

It could and would outlaw "tight money."

Purchasing power would be increased.

A "fair price system" would establish reasonable returns to farmers, fishermen and others engaged in basic industries.

Municipalities could and would be able to borrow money, in whatever amounts were needed, at a rate of 2 per cent interest.

The provincial governments would be treated more generously than at any time in the past by a Social Credit government at Ottawa which understood and respected the constitution.

Personal income tax exemptions for heads of families would be raised to $5,000 a year.

The Senate would be reformed. A distinctive Canadian national flag would be unfurled.

would remain free and unfettered by state planners in their enjoyment of all of these benefits.

For any who doubted that this by no means all-inclusive list of projects could be fulfilled in every particular in the foreseeable future, the Social Credit orators always had some useful catch phrases in reserve.

"If you don't want this country to become Socialist or Communist, vote Social Credit."

"The Canadian people have always fought for freedom."

"You have nothing to lose. Why not try Social Credit?"

"If you haven't suffered enough, it's your God-given privilege to suffer some more. If you want to, vote Liberal or Conservative. But if you've had enough, vote Social Credit!"

"You don't have to understand Social Credit to vote for it."

"There's no reason for any Canadian to live in misery in the midst of plenty."

"That which is physically feasible and desirable can and should be made financially possible."

The Social Credit campaign was, from the outset, aimed primarily at the lower and lower-middle income classes, at the groups which had fared worst in whatever economic condition prevailed. Its message had the greatest appeal for the distressed, the disturbed, the downtrodden.

In political terms, the Social Credit campaign was a throwback to that which enabled the late William Aberhart to sweep

Alberta like a prairie fire during the hungry mid-thirties.

On the Prairies, where wheat prices no longer bear any resemblance to those in effect in Aberhart's day, and where grain elevators are almost empty due to huge sales abroad, the campaign went nowhere. In any event, this kind of campaign was no novelty in the western provinces.

But in Quebec, Conservative and Liberal campaigners puzzled briefly over reports of the huge crowds which Mr. Caouette was attracting, then dismissed the matter from their minds as inconsequential. Not until the last week of the campaign did the two major parties realize that the Aberhart campaign style which Mr. Caouette had revived and adapted for Quebec consumption, coupled with organization, work more intensive than affected ridings had ever known, might make possible large Social Credit gains at their expense.

Washington Calling

Surprising Interpretations

By MARQUIS CHILDS

IN HIS discussion of American strategy in the commencement address he made at the University of Michigan, Secretary of Defence Robert S. McNamara set off a shock wave of discussion, criticism and attack that has traveled around the world. Critics, including some in the Soviet Union, interpreted his remarks as meaning that the United States is moving toward acceptance of the inevitability of nuclear war to be conducted under rules laid down in advance.

It has even been said that McNamara was implying that the United States might under the "counter-force" doctrine, strike first to knock out an enemy's bases. This would be the pre-emptive strike that thinkers at rarefied heights in the Pentagon are fond of working into their gameplan theories of the Third World War.

McNamara himself is surprised that anyone could draw such a conclusion from his speech. As he goes back over the words so carefully put together and read and re-read in advance by President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, he says ruefully that if anyone could in all honesty find that in his discussion of strategy, then he must have expressed himself badly.

He is convinced, moreover, that while propagandists in the Soviet Union picked up this interpretation for their own purposes, Premier Khrushchev could not mistake what he was saying.

First, McNamara repudiates any implication that the United States would initiate a nuclear war. He quotes what President Kennedy said at a mid-February press conference:

"... Now if someone thinks we should have a nuclear war in order to win, I can inform them that there will not be winners of the next nuclear war, if there is one, and this country and other countries would suffer very heavy blows ..."

In his discussion of the "controlled response" and the possibility of a war limited to military bases rather than cities, McNamara was saying that while the United States would never initiate nuclear war, if it were forced on the country, then the U.S. would have a choice. Because of the preponderance of American nuclear strength—somewhere between three to eight times that of the Soviet Union—the United States might in the first instance respond by hitting only enemy bases. This would theoretically give the enemy an incentive either to stop the war or to limit it to American bases.

Such a choice is believed to be beyond the range of the Soviet Union. Therefore, it is unlikely that a limit could be imposed if, through an act of madness or desperation, the Soviet Union should unleash a nuclear attack on the United States.

Several times in his Michigan speech the secretary of defence stated that no nation would ever make a rational decision to go to nuclear war.

He is convinced that a nuclear war would shatter the fabric of civilization. Some elements might survive, but in the West the forms of free government and the free way of life would be destroyed. He knows that there are those in the Pentagon—some in high position—who disagree and who feel that a nuclear war can be won. But in accord with the president's decision, it is McNamara who fixes the strategy that this country will respond to a nuclear attack with greatly preponderant power—but will never initiate such an attack.

One of the most important policy declarations since the Kennedy administration came to power, the Ann Arbor speech was primarily aimed at confirming the basic American position on nuclear weapons within the Western alliance. The government is opposed to any further spread of such weapons in national nuclear deterrents, and the speech was interpreted as reaffirming the decision against supplying nuclear help to France while assuring the North Atlantic powers that the American deterrent is as ready to respond to an attack on Europe as on the United States.

At the NATO meeting in Athens in May, the secretary of defence for the first time gave the NATO foreign ministers the full details of America's nuclear arsenal, including the number of nuclear warheads and the impressive total megatonnage. He did this with little concern for security, since quite obviously the Soviet Union has the resources to come pretty close to an accurate estimate of this strength.

On the other hand, NATO nations such as Belgium and the Netherlands do not have those resources. The foreign ministers were amazed at the details of the American arsenal.

McNamara was saying in effect that with nuclear weapons numbering between 1,700 to 2,000, the American deterrent was massive and indivisible. If France should eventually achieve 100 warheads—a goal distant by several years, at least—it would, in the McNamara argument, be a hindrance rather than a help in deterring a nuclear attack and keeping the peace.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

THE worst possible kind of back-seat driver is the wife or husband who, in a collision with another car, immediately accuses his or her helpmeet at the top of his or her voice.

For example, on the holiday highway a car side-swiped another car going in the same direction. As the two vehicles slacked over to the shoulder of the road for the usual polite exchanges, the wife of the man who was driving the offending car yelled:

Dateline: Europe

Historic Event

By OTTO VON HAMBURG

THE days of Chancellor Adenauer's visit to President de Gaulle were important dates in Europe's history. They were a powerful demonstration of the continent's unity and the crowning event of the political career of two statesmen.

The whole program had significance. The long intimate conversations in Paris and the goodwill tour through such typical French cities as Beauvais, Rouen and Bordeaux were only the prelude to a climax in Reims. There, in the town where France's kings were crowned, a joint parade of Franco-German troops marked the end of the cycle of wars and the beginning of a new era.

Both General de Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer have a keen feeling for greatness and history. They know that the military ceremony of Reims could dramatize the reunion, after a thousand years, of the two branches of the Frankish nations, the re-establishment in the form of the 20th century of Charlemagne's Empire. The two peoples after many centuries of quarrels which ruined Europe, find each other in a common constructive task.

The picture is extraordinary for those who remember a recent past. A little over 20 years ago the Rhine was an abyss separating two worlds; today the great river is a tie between nations. This truly peaceful revolution could only be made by men whose attitude during the last great war was above reproach. On the French side, only the head of the Resistance has enough authority to liquidate a bloody and painful past; on the German side the same decision could only be made by a man who, despite his irreducible moral opposition to Hitler, did nothing against his own country at war.

Some may say that Adenauer's trip has mainly a symbolic significance. This is true to a certain point. Practical politics nevertheless show the impact of such gestures. Treaties, technical agreements, and financial arrangements are certainly important. They nevertheless mean relatively little for the masses. The latter demand visible signs easy to understand. The great public scarcely notes the academic debates of the Council of Europe. It follows with passionate interests something appealing to the imagination, such as the reunion of soldiers of two nations in the presence of the highest representatives of both states.

This event makes the discussions over the exact formula of the European political union seem rather platonic. Of course, we need institutions through which the will of the continent will find adequate expression. But their initial form is of subordinate importance, since they are bound to go through several stages of adjustment.

What counts is to have something tangible soon; the remainder can be left to the dynamics of the evolution. Recent history is encouraging from this point of view. The Coal and Steel Community was far from perfect. Nevertheless it gave us the Common Market, which leads us now towards political unity. The European Defence Community, on the other hand, was based on a document which fulfilled every desire of the "good Europeans." Nevertheless, because it was an attempt to go too fast and too far, it did not succeed and led to Europe's gravest setback in the years since 1945.

Fear for Europe's political future should be much diminished by the demonstration of Franco-German unity. Political Europe was there in flash and boom. It was present in Reims and in other French cities by a full meeting of minds and hearts. Henceforth nobody can deny that the continent is one, a living reality which entered the conscience of nations. History teaches us that such developments pave the way for adequate institutions, which, because they are born from practical life, will be stronger and longer lasting than the finest projects worked out by wise men in the rarified atmosphere of a parliamentary commission.

Police Move In On Sons

AGASSIZ, B.C. (CP)—Extra RCMP officers moved into the upper Fraser Valley Sunday following arson attacks blamed on Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

RCMP detachments here and at nearby Harrison Hot Springs were reinforced. Civic authorities called for more police protection after arsonists set fire to a sawmill and failed in attempts to burn down three barns.

PRISON SITE

The burnings took place in the locality of the new special federal penitentiary for convicted Freedomite terrorists. RCMP Inspector S. E. Raybone declined to say how many extra men had been sent to Agassiz but that "adequate arrangements have been made to protect the people in the area."

All-night guards were posted during the weekend at Raaske Marine Services Limited.

Victorian 'Not Convinced'

She Blocked Drug

WASHINGTON (CP)—A Canadian-born doctor is credited with having stubbornly blocked marketing in the U.S. of the drug thalidomide, suspected of having caused thousands of malformed babies in Europe—and some in Canada as well.

She is Dr. Frances Oldham Kelsey, a federal Food and Drug Administration medical officer who refused to be hurried into approving the drug for sale in the U.S. despite the fact, as the potential manufacturer pointed out, the sedative had been approved for sale in West Germany, Britain, Canada and other countries.

Dr. Kelsey, a native of Vancouver Island, said she was not entirely convinced that the drug was safe.

Sunday's Washington Post gave this account of the episode:

In September, 1960, Dr. Kelsey received from the William S. Merrell Company of Cincinnati a request for permission to market the drug. Merrell said it in Canada for a short time under the name Kevalon.

Dr. Kelsey declined to license it and for the next year kept issuing 60-day postponements whenever the application was returned.

Finally, in November, 1961, Merrell received a cable from Europe indicating that thalidomide was linked with malformations in babies born to women who had used the drug.

The firm reported this promptly to Dr. Kelsey and withdrew the licensing application.

Subsequent investigations, centring in West Germany, established a link between thalidomide and phocomelia, a fatal malformation that usually leaves its victims with only one normal arm, the other side having rudimentary fingers rising from a stub below the shoulder.

It is estimated that by the end of next month the number of such malformations will total between 3,500 and 6,000 in West Germany alone.

Carpenters Plan Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. carpenters locked in a wage dispute with three contractors' associations Monday gave 48 hours notice of intent to go on strike.

It meant that the 1,200 carpenters can strike after two days and within three months. But union spokesmen said they won't walk out until members vote on an offer from employers.

The union sought an increase of 25 cents an hour over two years and other benefits. Present basic rate is $2.92 an hour. Results of the membership vote are expected July 26.

U.S. Plans to Slash Flow of Gold Abroad

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced Monday a far-reaching program for slashing almost in half the flow abroad of U.S. gold dollars resulting from stationing overseas of 1,000,000 service men and dependents.

McNamara told a news conference this would be difficult to do and even when the plan is fully effective in about four years the United States still would be spending $1,000,000,000 more abroad on defence than other countries are spending here.

In announcing plans for a $600,000,000 slash, he said it would be achieved by cutting military purchases abroad, guards. He was being held for investigation in an auto theft.

Man Attempts Suicide in Jail

VANCOUVER (CP)—A man tried to commit suicide in the city jail Sunday by slashing his left arm with a broken spoon, but he succeeded in inflicting only minor cuts. Alexander Daniel Bell, 23, was found lying on his bunk with several small cuts on his arm by a cell-mate who called

LETTERS to the Editor

We do consider the publication of letters of interest to our readers. Letters should be on subjects of general interest, not more than 200 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

Returning from the First World War I visited a friend who lived on a remote homestead 40 miles from a railroad. A mile from him lived a Syrian who had gone queer through loneliness. The Syrian carried a shotgun and had a persecution complex.

My friend had to live at close quarters with this problem as the Syrian looked on him as a friend at times and another of his enemies at other times. There were few people living in the district and my friend had to cope with the man on his own. He did it through remembering at all times that he was dealing with a sub-normal.

When our diplomats deal with the Communists they should at all times remember that they are dealing with religious maniacs who cannot be judged by ordinary standards. Like many other religious sects that have preceded them they believe that they have the answer to all the world's problems.

Many Americans in high places believe that force is the answer to the Communist problem. As Brock Chisholm has pointed out force in this connection equals mutual suicide. We must live with this problem, remembering like my homestead friend that "time cures many diseases."

Investment in Lives

The item recently printed in your paper about the convention of Alcoholics Anonymous held in Victoria was most inadequately written. Every member of AA is a life reclaimed from the dread disease of alcoholism, a scourge in any country. Each person is now taking a normal place in society owing every victory over the demoralizing, anti-social disease to the understanding fellowship of other alcoholics.

Meeting together is life-blood to an alcoholic; it is a sharing of problems and victories; it is the strength of unity which has always open arms for all others with similar problems and needs.

Any city that has an active AA group should feel very proud of the investment of redeemed lives it is nurturing...

Go—or Stay? Doctors Face Final Choice

SASKATOON (CP)—This is a week of decision for individual Saskatchewan doctors, the head of their governing body said yesterday.

Dr. H. D. Daigleish, president of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, said many doctors will decide in the next few days whether to remain in the province.

Most Saskatchewan doctors stopped work July 1 in an organized boycott of the province's medical care insurance plan.

SASKATOON (CP)—A Saskatchewan Federation of Labor spokesman said yesterday the federation is seeking legal advice on its proposed boycott of businesses which closed last Wednesday to allow employees to attend a mass rally in Regina.

MOOSE JAW (CP)—A Cabri, Sask., doctor has returned to full practice under a new contract with the Swift Current health region, defying the government to "tell me how, why, when or where I shall practise good medicine."

Dr. Peter Frine said in a statement yesterday he was working under the control of no one. He said he was protesting pressure from doctors.

Battling the province's medical care plan forced him to stop serving as an unpaid intern in a hospital at Leader.

Clean Bill of Health For Pageant Script

The recently-written script of The Victoria Story, the city's centennial pageant, has been ruled historically acceptable and production will go ahead.

Centennial headquarters announced yesterday that historical adviser James K. Nesbitt had approved the presentation and that recruiting of the huge cast was going ahead on schedule.

The pageant, which begins an eight-day run July 28, will tell in words and music the story of the city from earliest times to the present day.

Among sequences are arrival of James Douglas and his party, the tent-town years, the gold rush and election of Thomas Harris, the city's first mayor.

Presentation of the Queen of the Centennial will be a feature of the show.

Boon for Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has received tariff concessions from the European Common Market covering nearly $250,000,000 in annual exports to the six-nation trade bloc as a result of months of tough tariff bargaining.

The concessions, in a package embracing farm, fishery and forest products, metals and some manufactured goods, were announced yesterday by Trade Minister Hees.

He also announced that the Common Market has agreed to negotiate terms for future trade in Canadian wheat—a big $130,000,000 trade item last year.

He said this settlement, with assurances of minimum wheat sales, "should cover Canada's normal and traditional export of wheat" to the Common Market.

Some of the tariff concessions provide for reductions in the proposed common tariff wall now being created around the ECM members.

Others — a majority of the concessions — involve a "binding" of ECM tariffs so that they can't be raised in future without Canada getting offsetting trade advantages.

Canada's trade deal with the Common Market was worked out during negotiations at Geneva under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade that began nearly two years ago.

Normally, GATT negotiations produce tit-for-tat tariff concessions by both sides. But under the ECM deal, Canada's tariffs won't be affected.

DONALD GORDON
... labor, transportation

Gordon Urges Dual Overhaul

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian National Railways president Donald Gordon called Monday for an overhaul of regulations governing both labor negotiations and transportation to help the publicly-owned rail system meet growing competition.

ARBITRATION

Urging more effective procedures for dealing with union demands, Mr. Gordon suggested some form of voluntary binding arbitration might be the answer.

Mr. Gordon said government transport rules should be relaxed to allow the CNR to meet mounting competition from other modes of transportation.

He told a joint meeting of two service clubs and the Chamber of Commerce that measures to improve CNR efficiency should form part of a constructive drive by all Canadians to "improve our standard of living in our new world environment."

Federal conciliation procedures are underway currently between the major Canadian railways and 15 unions representing about 100,000 non-operating employees, some 74,000 of them CNR employees. Union wage and job security demands would cost an estimated $46,000,000 annually—about $35,000,000 to the CNR.

Chain Stores Agree

Wage Boosts Granted To Food Employees

Five B.C. food chain stores have accepted a conciliation report under which most of 4,000 employees throughout B.C. 230 of them in Greater Victoria, will receive wage increases totaling 15 cents an hour during a two-year period.

Mort Duffus of Vancouver, general manager of Kelly Douglas, proprietors of Super-

Valu stores, said yesterday the firm had decided to accept the report. "We're going along with it," he said. He did not elaborate.

WILL ACCEPT

Safeway, Shop Easy, Loblaw and Dominion Stores had earlier indicated acceptance of the conciliation report.

The decision was welcomed yesterday by John Nicol, Victoria local business agent for the Retail Food and Drug Clerks Union which last week accepted the conciliation report by 80 per cent in a province vote.

VERY PLEASED

He said the union is "very pleased" and the settlement is an example of the many labor-management struggles which are settled through negotiation without strikes.

The conciliation report includes job security clauses described by Mr. Nicol as not all the union would like, but a step forward.

The union had stressed job security in the negotiations.

DEADLINE TODAY

Today was the deadline for the companies' decision on the conciliation report. Agreement between the union and chain stores usually sets the pattern for unorganized food and drug clerks in B.C.

The two-year settlement will take effect as of last April 18. Some of the highest-paid workers get a total increase of only five cents an hour, but most will get five cents immediately, five in November and five in April.

Nocturnal Visit Nets Jail

An unwelcome nocturnal visit to his estranged wife has cost a Victoria man two months' liberty.

Raymond Walter Price, 723 Yates Street, was sentenced to two months in jail yesterday by Magistrate Harold Alder. Price was charged with breaking a $250 bond to be of good behavior for six months granted to him June 21.

The court was told Price went to his wife's home about 1:30 a.m. June 29. He climbed onto the roof of the house, and a second-storey window was broken.

When police arrived Mrs. Price had left the house and Price was found in the yard.

School Man Honored With Dinner

Members of the B.C. Association of District Superintendents and Inspectors of Schools, and officials of the department of education Thursday held a retirement dinner at the Oak Bay Golf Club for C. J. Frederickson, school superintendent for Burnaby.

Speaker at the dinner was S. G. Graham, superintendent for New Westminster.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson on behalf of the department presented Mr. Frederickson with a scroll to commemorate his 24 years of service.

Up-Island Complaint

Tourism Lagging

Bad weather, shortage of money and tight travel timetables have combined to produce a tourist drought throughout northern Vancouver Island.

Members of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau board of directors interviewed yesterday indicated that the summer—which got away to a discouragingly slow start—was continuing to lag far behind expectations.

Allan Maclean of Campbell River blamed lack of planning by the tourist experts as much as any other factor.

Experience, he said, is indicating the Seattle World Fair may actually be acting as a deterrent to up-island trade.

People are spending more in Seattle and less on the island. "If we had taken the trouble to gather up some statistics about similar events of high interest, we might have learned not to expect so much," he said.

"We should all learn a very valuable lesson from this situation," Mr. Maclean continued—though he agreed it was likely to be an expensive lesson to learn.

"I don't think there was enough effort made to pull these people north once they arrived on the island. As a result, many visitors are passing us by who might otherwise have been induced to stay."

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Thailand reports it has withdrawn from the treaty temple of Phra Prang, relinquishing it to Cambodia in compliance with a world court verdict. Interior Minister Gen. ## Centennial Fountain To Flow on Birthday

The centennial fountain being built at the rear of the legislative buildings will flow for the first time Aug. 2, the exact date of the city's incorporation.

Completion of the fountain was postponed in May and June by delays in the arrival of bronze animals and birds which will decorate the $45,000 structure.

A spokesman for the provincial public works department said the figures, which are being made in England, are expected here "in plenty of time" for the August opening ceremonies.

Weekend Burglaries Net Loot from Zero to $3,000

City police are busy investigating five burglaries over the weekend which netted the thieves loot, ranging from nothing up to $3,000 in cash. And an unsuccessful attempt was made early yesterday morning to break into Memorial Arena.

Major burglary was at McGavin's Toastmaster Bakery, 2629 Prior, where the $3,000 together with a number of cheques was fished out of an opened safe by a hooked wire. Entry was gained early Sunday through a sliding door at the rear of the building. The front door was then opened and an oxy-acetylene welding outfit—stolen earlier from Saanich—was wheeled in.

Five holes were burned through the top of the safe and the burglars poured gallons of water over the smoking metal to cool it.

They reached into the four feet tall safe with a hooked wire to fish out canvas bags of money and cheques.

Less expert burglars smashed a glass window on the west side of Superior Auto Body and Radiator Shop, 649

Pembroke Street, about 1 a.m. Sunday.

They forced the door to the office and used an acetylene torch from the firm's equipment in an attempt to burn through the metal.

The burglars were apparently disturbed by police.

The heavy safe held no money, anyway.

A third burglary was reported from the provincial Douglas Building at Douglas and Belleville.

Entrance was again gained through a smashed window and a cigarette machine smashed and an unknown amount of money stolen from the cashbox.

At 6:02 a.m. police on patrol discovered the garage door on Heaney's warehouse on Montreal Street had been forced open but nothing had been stolen.

At 10:15 p.m. Sunday, J. K. Trask, 1132 Johnson Street, reported his room had been burgled. A bottle of liquor and six bottles of pop were stolen.

At 2:52 a.m. yesterday the night watchman at Memorial Arena phoned police that someone was attempting to break into the building. Police found an attempt had been made to force a door on the northeast corner of the arena.

New Army Posts

Major and Mrs. Marsland Rankin arrived in Victoria yesterday to take command of the Pandora Avenue Citadel of the Salvation Army.

They replace Brig and Mrs. Byron Purdy who have been transferred to Vancouver after serving two years in Victoria.

Another recent appointment is Major Ron Frewing, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alf Frewing of Victoria, who becomes public relations officer. He and his wife replace Brig. and Mrs. Cliff Milley.

Welcome services for the Rankins are planned for 8 p.m. Wednesday and 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday. Major Rankin is a native of Glace Bay, N.S. This is his first appointment in western Canada.

His wife is the former Sadie Christenson of Vancouver. Major Frewing has a daughter, Shannon. The Rankins are accompanied by a son, Robert, and have a daughter, Barbara, in Oshawa, Ont.

Pops Program Pleases

By BERT MINNY

All the seats, a lot of the grassy area and even some of the far less comfortable rocks were occupied by the large audience at the Victoria Symphony concert in Beacon Hill Park on Sunday afternoon.

But they were all well rewarded. This was a brisk, lively pops program, providing the kind of items which might very well be granted greater prominence in regular season concerts.

Tchaikowsky, Brahms, Berlioz, Strauss, Puccini and even the much less well-known Frescobaldi were all represented but by compositions in most cases easier repeated than identified.

And, with these, were contemporary items such as Gligi (Loewe), Serenata and The Belle of the Ball (Leroy Anderson) and The King and I (Richard Rodgers).

It was the kind of music which has reached and caught the fancies of a tremendous number of people. Thus it has endured: Toccata, the Frescobaldi item, for instance, for some 350 years.

The soloists were violinist Julia Hunt and soprano Anne Harris, the former with de Sarasate's Gypsy Airs and the latter with One Fine Day from Madame Butterfly and selections from The King and I.

The concert was conducted by Dr. James M. Gayler and presented by Victoria Local 247, A.F. of M. Recording Industries Trust Fund.

Like sunshine, we could stand more of this kind of thing.

Village Guttled By Fierce Fire

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Fire destroyed the Alpine village of Bousson northwest of here Saturday. No injuries were reported among the 130 inhabitants of the Susa Valley community near the French border nor among foreign tourists in the area.

But flames destroyed 30 homes, the school, the municipal hall and the church. Only a single home was left standing.

Island Run Good News

A 25-pound spring landed by Harry Talbot in the Chesterfield Rock area of Finlayson

Arm took top honors in the Shrine Club salmon derby in Saanich Inlet Sunday.

Best news for King Fishermen is that a good salmon run has finally hit upper Island Quilicum and Campbell River waters and appears to be fairly consistent.

Verne George of Killarney Resort at Saratoga Beach reports that all boats except one returned with fish to his resort Friday evening . . . and the fishing was only 300 to 400 yards off shore with bucktails or pearl pink plugs, trolled quickly.

The bell buoy, off Cape Mudge, and Butler's Point, also off Quadra Island, have been consistent producers of good-sized coho.

Fishing off the Coffey Bluff opposite Campbell River village, Mrs. James A. Grant out-fished her husband when she caught a 28-pounder. Mr. and Mrs. Grant are regular Campbell River visitors and come from Lima, Peru. They are staying at April Point on Quadra Island. Although her husband is an ardent angler, it was Mrs. Grant's first try.

Mayor R. B. Wilson is giving more than his blessing to the Mayor's Centennial Blood Clinic this week—he's also giving a pint of blood.

The drive, to replenish the Victoria Red Cross blood bank, will be held Thursday and Friday at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street, from 2:30-4:30 p.m. and 7:30-9:30 p.m. each day.

"In our centennial year we should be able to make a special effort," Mayor Wilson said yesterday. "I'll be glad to donate blood to the drive."

Marina Estate For Qualicum Unique in B.C.

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Outdoor Editor

The 105-acre Little Qualicum River estuary is being revamped in a $3,500,000 estate development, unique in this province, which will see dredging of a lagoon and canal system to be fronted by 238 homes.

Each home will have facilities to bring a small cruiser right to the doorstep. A shopping centre and secluded resort hotel are to be included in later stages of development.

First lots in the new Qualicum Marine Properties' development went on sale last weekend and already some of the road system has been blacktopped.

The project is being planned in three stages. First will be development of 21 large beach-front lots.

Second and third stages call for development of additional beachfront, a marina for 200 boats in the lagoon and development of riverfront and lagoon homesites.

There already is a freshwater lagoon on the 105-acre property, but plans call for it to be enlarged by the dredging of a winding canal system, entering from the Little Qualicum River and with a control lock on the beach side of the canal.

The project has been approved by the fisheries department.

Beachfront homesites will stretch over a mile of beach and there will be nearly two miles of freshwater canal frontage, plus half a mile of river frontage.

TWO BRIDGES

Bridges will cross the canal at at least two points and the development will extend upstream almost to the Little Qualicum highway bridge.

It will cover some of the Island's finest cutthroat trout and steelhead waters and will be adjacent to Qualicum's well-known coho fishing waters.

Marine services and overnight accommodations are planned adjacent to the marina and separated from residential areas. Other planned facilities include a shopping centre and resort hotel.

FRISCO MONEY

San Francisco money is behind the project and San Francisco investment broker Barney Marshall is president of the developing Qualicum Marine Properties Ltd.

Consulting engineers and planners are Robertson, Kilbless, Teevan and Callahan of Vancouver.

Frank Ney's Nanaimo Realty is agent for the unique estate development.

Street Policy

Saanich Starts Fight for Light

Saanich council last night adopted a new street lighting policy and immediately launched a program aimed at reducing the municipality's main illumination problems.

From now on, council will initiate street lighting by local improvement, on an area basis instead of street-by-street. Residents will pay by 10-year local improvement of the cost of the equivalent of a residential quality of lighting. The annual charge will be about $7 a lot.

CADBORO BAY

After adopting this measure, council approved its use in the Cadboro Bay area. The project will cost 212 property owners a total of $12,107.10.

Lighting will be installed on portions of Cadboro Bay Road, Killarney Road, Sinclair Road, Penryn Street, Arbutus Road and Queenswood Drive, and all of Killarney Place, Pitcombe Place, Kilgarry Place, Maynard Street, Scotton Road, Hobbs Street and Rowley Road.

Council also approved municipal engineer Neville Life's proposals for $15,000 expenditure from this year's budget for three projects.

They included $1,730 for lighting of dangerous intersections on the Patricia Bay Highway at Vanalman, the Trans-Canada Highway at Wilkison and Grange, Saanich Road at Vernon and Douglas Street at Bole-ski and Cuddehul.

Also $1,740 for replacement of obsolete lights on Cadboro Bay Road, Arbutus at Finnelly and Gordon Head, Mount Douglas Park and Cordova Bay Road at Walens.

Third project was the re-lighting of main roads with $11,800 from the corporation and $17,850 by local improvement.

SITES NAMED

This would include Tillicum from Gorge to the Trans-Canada, Quadra from Stoba Lane to Reynolds, Cedar Hill Cross Road from Shelbourne to Bras-ford, Shelbourne from North Dairy to Cedar Hill Cross Road, Richmond from Newton to North Boundary, and Cadboro Bay Road from Sinclair to Maynard.

"With the installation of this lighting, the municipality will have made a substantial start in illuminating the most travelled major roads," said Mr. Life.

Saanich will use mercury vapor lights because of low maintenance costs and their ability to cast a beam instead of just a diffused glow, he said.

Short Cut

Taking short route across Battle Lake at crack of dawn are three deer — two bucks and a doe — which chose to swim, rather than walk around 31-mile-long lake. Columnist outdoors writer Alec Merriman and brother Fred nearly hit them as they sped down the lake, near Myra Falls, but cut motor and stopped to get this unusual picture.

Cram Garbage In Container Saanich Advice

You can cram more refuse into your garbage can if you step on it, a Saanich councillor said last night.

Of course, you might get your shoes dirty and make the garbage collector angry, but it will get you by between the twice-monthly collection.

"We find that taking the lid off and jamming up and down on the garbage helps, but it makes it difficult to get the lid off for emptying," said Coun. Hugh Curtis.

He said this, minutes after Coun. Robert Ostler said some people misuse their garbage cans by throwing "unwrapped garbage and slop" into the cans, adding to the fly nuisance.

Coun. Robert Chard said, "I think weekly garbage collection is one of the marvels of the modern age." Previous occupants of his home left so much behind that "I've been 10 years hauling it out of the bush."

Council, unable to agree on any course of action, decided to put the question of weekly service to the ratepayers in the form of referendum in December.

Only opposing vote to the referendum motion was cast by Coun. Ostler.

Probes Set In Deaths

Inquiries will be held into the deaths of a 39-year-old woman Friday and a nine-week-old boy Sunday.

Mrs. V. H. Joy, 1287 Filmer, died in a psychiatrist's office Friday evening. Cause of death was unknown.

Rosa Rasmussen, 150 Linden, was dead in his home apparently of natural causes, when a fire department inhalator crew arrived Sunday morning.

Three-Week Bingo Flatly Denied Here

The B.C. bingo ban boiled up again yesterday as an official said, "If it is played less often than bi-weekly we would have to take a look at it."

The official added RCMP will attend a number of bingo games throughout the province within the next three weeks to warn operators of the criminal code provision.

"We are hoping that by the first week of August all groups will have been warned and will have made an attempt to operate within the law."

Point at issue is a section of the Criminal Code of Canada which permits "occasional" bingo games.

"The courts have held that if bingo is played bi-weekly it is not occasional," the official said.

Other Districts Short Teaching Staffs Filled for Fall

Greater Victoria schools will have a full complement of 852 teachers this September despite a shortage which to date has left many B.C. districts with classrooms without teachers.

Last night's school board meeting was told there are to be 31 additional teachers employed this fall. There are to be six additional senior high teachers and 35 extra in elementary schools.

JUNIOR HIGH DROP

These figures are offset by the fact that junior high schools, which recently have lost many Grade 7 classes to elementary schools, will employ 12 fewer teachers in the district than last year.

A record enrolment of slightly more than 24,700 pupils is expected this fall.

Joseph Chell, assistant district superintendent, reported to the board on the shortage of teachers for special classes.

The superintendent reported a total of 19 Grade 7 classes will function in elementary schools this September. This is roughly one-third of the total that must be moved out of junior high schools to comply with a recommendation of the Chant Commission.

A total of seven occupational classes will be held next year in the five junior high schools.

Trustees last night approved establishment of two additional special classes for youngsters with IQs lower than the average.

Applications from teachers seeking jobs in the district. Said Mr. Chell: "We did a bit of checking and found that this is due in large measure to changes in teacher qualification regulations."

Mr. Chell said where teachers with two years' college qualified for the permanent elementary basic certificates, this now takes three years.

District superintendent of schools John Gough said authorities in many other school districts in B.C. reported they have not been able to obtain all the teachers they require for September.

All vacancies in Victoria have been filled in local schools, but there is still a shortage of teachers for special classes.

Summer School Swings

Summer school classes are in full swing with almost 1,000 students in attendance.

At Victoria High School 353 members of school bands and orchestras are taking instruction in instrumental music. It is the 14th year of the summer music school which students attend voluntarily and pay a $5 fee to help defray expenses.

Last night's school board meeting was told the program "is almost self-supporting."

ACADEMIC CLASSES Another 619 students are attending academic summer classes held daily at Oak Bay Junior High School.

Now in its seventh year of operation, this program allows students who have failed one or two Grade 9 courses to get the credits they need for full promotion to Grade 10 in September.

District superintendent John Gough said fees paid by students cover the entire cost of the summer school operation.

Grade 5 Swims Set High Mark

A little more than 70 per cent of the Grade 5 pupils taking part in Greater Victoria school board's swimming program met maximum requirements for the course, trustees were told last night.

A total of 931 pupils from 18 elementary schools in the district received eight weeks of instruction. They were divided into classes for beginners, junior or intermediate.

Of those who tried the tests in their respective divisions, 619—70.3 per cent—met maximum requirements; another 250 met the minimum standards set by Red Cross water safety officials; and only 38—4.4 per cent—failed.

Twenty teachers took an active part in the program, assisting two full-time and three part-time Red Cross instructors.

7,000 Enjoy Fort

By IAN STREET

Nearly 7,000 visitors passed through Fort Road in the first month of its operation as a national historic site, acting superintendent Pat Crofton said last night.

So far local people have outnumbered out-of-town visitors by a ratio of three to one, but officials said more tourists are getting to know about the fort and putting it on their list of spots not to be missed in Victoria.

Mr. Crofton, who was recently appointed to the post of acting superintendent, said so far there has been no allocation of funds for literature to promote Fort Road Hill as a tourist attraction.

"No doubt exists, however, as to the potential of this historic monument as a major tourist attraction," said Mr. Crofton.

"We have commissioners on duty at all times the fort is open to direct the public and they report glowing comments from most visitors."

Most local people have come following the lengthy campaign to make the 44-acre site an historic monument.

Mr. Crofton said average weekday attendance is about 150 with 500 visitors on the average weekend.

Victorians—both individuals and those within the local tourist industry—can perform a valuable service by drawing this new attraction to the attention of out-of-town visitors.

Work on brush clearing, smoothing of parking spaces and general cleanup of the fort is now well under way. Some of the woodwork on old buildings is restored by sandblasting and a new coat of paint. The administration buildings are under repair.

Because of the possible fire hazard, however, visitors are restricted to the well-travelled pathways between various sections of the fortifications.

The fort is open from 9 a.m. to an hour before sunset. It can be reached by driving to Colwood Corner and then turning left through Belmont Park naval housing estate.

Hope in Offing

Queen, Roy Here Today

Mrs. Ollie Pifer of Los Angeles and her husband arrive here today for a three-day visit to Victoria, which she won as one of the prizes on the ABC-TV network show Queen For a Day.

Mrs. Pifer will stay at the Empress Hotel. During her interview Mrs. Pifer told the audience she wished for an air conditioner for the Los Angeles Braille Institute where she works. Her wish will be granted.

Also coming to town is Roy Rogers—but nobody knows exactly where, or when.

The cowboy star is to have lunch at the Olde England Inn at noon today, along with a party of 10.

Beyond this his plans were unknown. He is scheduled to appear with his famous horse Trigger in Vancouver Wednesday to Saturday.

HOPE ON HORIZON If this weren't enough, there's Hope for Victoria—beginning today or tomorrow at the latest.

World-renowned comedian Bob Hope, his wife and four children will arrive in the city for a vacation on Vancouver Island.

Though he was scheduled to arrive yesterday, decision to present another show at the Seattle World's Fair forced a last-minute change in plans. He wants a quiet time here.

Fist-Shaking, Pea Soup Mark Trip

City Students on Way to Europe

This is the first in a series of trips by members of the Greater Victoria Youth Council to Europe and France under the auspices of the B.C. Student Travel Association.

Janey Wilson was the first to sight the beautiful coast of Wales from the window of the DC-7C chartered by the B.C. Student Travel Association.

After hours of staring at the grey Atlantic far below—the flight from Montreal to London took 11 hours—the green hills and neat fields were a wonderful sight.

After refuelling at London Airport we took off again for a short flight to Brussels. From there it was a six-hour bus trip to Paris and the real start of our European sight-seeing trip which is to last 50 days and nights.

The trip actually started at the Swartz Bay ferry terminal a few days ago. We met there to board a ferry to the mainland and our special train waiting in Vancouver.

Mary Young nearly missed the boat when her family's car had a flat tire on the Patricia Bay Highway. Passing motor-ists, who turned out to be Kirk Davis and Rick Stokes, also on the tour, stopped and gave her a lift, thus saving the day.

On the train trip east most of us rose early to enjoy the sight of the Rockies. Russ Dean was so entranced he snapped Mount Robson without bothering to take the lens cap off his camera.

At Winnipeg, a mixup in railroads almost stranded Barb Middleton and Ginny Ambrey. They asked to be directed to the CPR station—we were travelling CNR.

In Ottawa we had a longer stopover and took in all the sights including a tour of the parliament buildings. Dave Allon, Cameron Croll and Robble Dunn climbed the Peace Tower.

In the lobby of the Chateau Laurier several Ottawa citizens got the shock of their lives when the quiet was shattered by jangling of an alarm clock.

Maureen Panthorpe was carrying the clock to remind her of train departure time.

Paintings in the national gallery were of special interest to Murray Smith and Jim Coy while Kathy Lendels, Wendy Burdon, Doug Davies and Dennis Bates signed the visitors' book at Government House.

Everybody was impressed.

The engagement is announced of Elizabeth Jean, daughter of Mrs. Florence McIntosh, 238 Vincent Avenue, and the late Mr. Malcolm McIntosh, to Mr. Charles Keith Hamblett, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hamblett of Scarborough, England. The wedding will take place on Saturday, August 18, at 2:30 p.m. in St. John's Anglican Church, Canon George Biddle officiating. (Photos by Knight.)

Vancouver Home For Newlyweds

A culture pearl necklace belonging to her grandmother was "something borrowed" for Patricia Anne Rutledge when she exchanged vows in St. Aidan's United Church. Her gown of white chiffon over tulle was styled with a scoop neckline, lily point sleeves and skirt slightly on train. Two-tier bouffant veil misted from a coronet of pearls and crystals. Yellow roses and stephanotis were in the bouquet.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil W. Rutledge, 1370 Harrop Road, and Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Bryan, 1727 Cedar Avenue. Mr. Rutledge gave his daughter in marriage.

Yellow and white snapdragons and gladioli decorated the church for the occasion. Guests' pews were marked with white roses. Rev. A. G. McLeod officiated. Gowns of pale green chiffon were chosen by matron of honor, Mrs. Ronald Pedersen.

and bridesmaids, the Misses Patricia Noels and Diane Rutledge. White accessories and whistles and yellow carnation bouquets completed their ensembles.

Mr. Pedersen was best man and ushering guests were William Davies and Wayne Richardson.

Hector Marsh, Kamloops, proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Uplands Golf Club. Yellow roses in silver vases and a three-tier wedding cake set decor at the head table.

As her going-away ensemble the bride chose a pale pink Italian knit suit, toning petalled hat, white accessories and white rose corsage. Out-of-town guests were E. G. Zilkie and L. Turner of Vancouver, Mrs. E. Robertson, Winnipeg, Man., and Mr. and Mrs. H. Marsh of Kamloops. The newlyweds are now making their home in Vancouver.

Miss Jay Marries Mr. Crowe

A pretty wedding was solemnized in First United Church recently when Diane Marion Jay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jay of Victoria, was united in marriage with Mr. Gerald C. Crowe, son of Mrs. Crowe of Bobcaygeon, Ontario, and the late Mr. Frank Crowe.

Rev. A. I. Higgins officiated at the evening ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported brocade, her shoulders well misted from a crystal tulle. She wore a strand of crystal beads.

Matron of honor, Sharon Pedersen, sister of the bride, chose green nylon and attendant Judy Diment and Mrs. Judy Jay chose rose and sea-foam nylon. They carried carnation bouquets. Flowergirl Cheryl Pedersen wore pink nylon and carried a pink rose colonial bouquet.

Best man was Mr. Kenneth Jay and ushers were Mr. Larry Jay and Mr. George Pedersen.

After the reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Crowe left on an up-island honeymoon. For going away the bride changed into a dove-grey suit with gardenia corsage.

They are now residing in Victoria.

Double-Ring Ceremony For Valerie Quested

A double ring ceremony at St. Luke's Anglican Church recently united Valerie Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Quested, and Mr. Michael James Morry, son of Mrs. J. Morry and the late Mr. Morry. Baskets of Ester Reed daisies of the bride, and the flower girl, a headpiece of tangerine carnations similar to the attendants' bouquets.

Best man was Chris Hopkins and ushers, John Quested, bride's brother, Bill Pipes and Brian Coutts.

Noon and Miss Bonnie Bescott and flower girl, Laurie Coulthard, wore dresses of Nile green chiffon over lighter green taffeta. Bridesmaids wore rhinestone tiaras and pearl drop earring necklaces, gift of the bride, and the flower girl, a headpiece of tangerine carnations similar to the attendants' bouquets.

Best man was Chris Hopkins and ushers, John Quested, bride's brother, Bill Pipes and Brian Coutts.

A silver and white wedding cake centred the bride's table at the reception held at the Golden Slipper. Capt. George E. Cassidy proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

The bride changed to a white wool suit, with pale green accessories and Tailsman rose corsage for the honeymoon. Having returned from the Okanagan, the couple are making their home at 823 McLeod Street.

Tacoma Party

A native Victorian now living in Tacoma, Washington, celebrated her golden wedding anniversary over the weekend.

The former Mamie Stock was born on Pioneer Street in Esquimalt, and she was married to Mr. Robert Gunnerson in St. Paul's Church 50 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Gunnerson now have two sons, two daughters, nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild, all in the U.S.

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I've been married to a woman who considers herself too intelligent to do housework. She says housework is for the peasants.

She plays the harp as of course she can't put her hands in dishwater. She claims the water softens her skin and then she strings of the harp cut her fingers.

I bought her a dishwasher three years ago but she used it twice and then quit. It loads from the bottom and she says she can't stand on her head. Our 12-year-old daughter listens to her mother's excuses and uses them herself. She plays the harp too and so, of course, she can't do dishes either.

Blue Carpets Resist Soil

"Color can have as much bearing on how soiled your carpets look as does too much wear or too little care. So before apologizing for your house-keeping, check your rug's 'soil concealability,'" advises Ronald Gleeson, a Montreal maintenance manager who directs the housekeeping of a group of large office buildings and plants.

"As every maintenance manager knows, certain colors mask soiling while others actually draw attention to it. That's why maintenance workers usually wear dark blue uniforms and you seldom see a yellow carpet in the lobby of a public building. A technical study made in England has proved scientifically what every maintenance manager knows from practice."

DULL TONES

"I certainly wasn't surprised to learn that the dull dark shades led all the others as the best dirt concealers," says Mr. Gleeson. Although I was familiar with the 'soil concealability' of dark blue, I had to revise some of my thinking when I noted that the blue family led all others as the one least sensitive to apparent soiling. For instance, deep blue showed a resistance of almost nine times that of maize yellow. As expected, yellow emerged as the poorest performer with a 'soil conceal-ability' only slightly above white. Cornflower, one of the deepest blues investigated, was only one-seventieth as soillable as white.

YELLOW HUES

"Most medium depths showed a dirt resistance of 10 times that of white. However, this didn't hold for yellow or orange. Even in deep shades they were pretty obvious about their soil content.

But muted or dulled yellows and oranges obtained a somewhat higher 'soil concealability.' It was found that when these colors are selected in grayed or flattened tones, their 'soil concealability' rises in direct proportion to the degree of greying.

"Carpet colors with a satisfactory 'soil concealability' are medium or deeper shades of green, greenish blue, violet, brown, beige and grey. Muted or deep reds outperformed bright reds. But when it came to the star performer—blue only moderate color depths or greyed effects were required to raise its dirt disguising quality to a very high level."

COURT CIRCULAR
Buckingham Palace,
July 12.

The President of Liberia and Mrs. Tubman, with the Suite in attendance, left the Palace this morning on the conclusion of their visit to The Queen and The Duke of Edinburgh.

His Excellency Señor Dr. Don Ernesto Castillero-Pimentel was received in audience by Her Majesty and presented the Letters of Recall of his predecessor and his own Letters of Credence as Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary from the Republic of Panama to the Court of St. James's.

His Excellency was accompanied by the following Members of the Panamanian Embassy who had the honor of being presented to The Queen:—

Señor Don Demetrio Fabrega (Minister-Counselor), Mademoiselle Libraga Castillero-Pimentel (Attache), Mademoiselle Lastenia Guillermosa-Lopez (Attache).

Sir Harold Caccia (Permanent Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs), who had the honor of being received by Her Majesty, was present and the Gentlemen of the Household in Waiting were in attendance.

Sir Gawain Bell was received in audience by The Queen upon relinquishing his appointment as Governor of the Northern Region of Nigeria.

Lady Bell had the honor of being received by Her Majesty. Mr. Owen Davis was received in audience by The Queen and handed upon his appointment as Her Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary for the Commonwealth of Australia at Rio de Janeiro.

Mrs. Davis had the honor of being received by Her Majesty.

Quicker Zipper

NEW YORK (AP)—Ever feel a woman should have been born with extra-long arms, to be able to slip up the back of her dress without dislocating her spine?

Designer Ronald Arney has a better solution. He puts a zipper across each shoulder instead of down the back. This opens up the top of a dress and, since Arney has "relaxed" most skirts, you can slip right in and pull it up without ruffling your hair or disposition.

The visiting fashion press, rounding out a week of viewing New York couture group fall collections, applauded his zipper ingenuity Friday.

A double christening was solemnized Sunday in St. Columba's Anglican Church when two small cousins were given names by Rev. P. W. Roberts and Rev. Canon J. Rogers. The two-week son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Linley, 921 Violet Avenue (left), was given the names Scott Arthur, and the three-month-old daughter (right), of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ayton,

PERSONAL MENTION

Visiting the city briefly are Miss Simone Poltras of Ottawa and Miss Lise Cabana of Montreal. The girls who flew out from the East visited the Seattle World's Fair yesterday and will return home shortly via Banff. While here they were the guests at the Olde England Inn.

Exchange Vows

Mr. Brian Grier, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Grier, 650 Victoria Avenue, recently exchanged nuptial vows with Thelma, daughter of Dr. A. Gray of Ottawa, and the late Mrs. Gray. The marriage took place in Kingsway United Church, Ottawa. Dr. A. M. J. Gray and Rev. F. Horbock officiated.

Return to Winnipeg

Mrs. David Weir and her daughter, Patrice, have returned to their home on Narvaes Crescent following a 10-day holiday in Winnipeg, Man., where they were the guests of Mrs. Weir's mother, Mrs. D. McMillan. While there, they attended a reunion of former residents at Mrs. Weir's hometown of MacGregor, Man.

In Vancouver for Wedding

Victorians who went to Vancouver for the wedding of Miss Margaret Patricia Whitley and Mr. Robert Dan Pearson were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Palmalm, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Lidgate, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parker, Mrs. Alexander Coles, Mrs. W. W. McGill, Mr. and Mrs. Glen R. Stewart, Mr. Norman Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thompson, Mrs. Donald Dennis and Valerie Dennis.

In London

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Francis and Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Clark are among the many Victorians who have recently signed the register at British Columbia House, London. Others are Miss Elizabeth and Miss Katherine Pember, Mrs. A. McLeod Baird and Miss Margaret Baird, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Robertson and Jean, Dr. J. K. English, Prof. and Mrs. G. D. Brand, Mrs. Edna Brandon Hansen, Mr. R. Graham Bradshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Stan McFarland, Mrs. O. N. Pinhorn, Mr. F. S. Greenhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Florence, Mr. Peter Lund, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dixon, and Mr. Charles Wharton. Miss Dianne Tudway, Comox; Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Kulal, Nanaimo; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Parties for Bride

Pat Creighton has been feted at many parties prior to her wedding on July 21. A beautifully decorated box with a bride kit contained gifts at a linen shower held at the home of Miss Judy Rutledge. A red rose corsage was presented to the bride-elect and pink gladioli to her mother, Mrs. L. Creighton.

Guests present were Mrs. G. Rutledge, Mrs. D. Pasaland and the Misses Maryanne McCormack, Ann McEwen, Dorothy Farley, Donna Pack. Miss Dorothy Farley was hostess at a surprise shower at her Athlone Drive home. Those present were Mrs. P. Farley, Mrs. L. Creighton, and the Misses Eveline Nolin, Marcia Henly, Maren Pedersen, Barbara Gordon, Sandra Pritchard, Marg Magee, Pat Farley, Loretta Creighton, Theresa James, Patricia Lucas, Ann McEwen, and Judy Rutledge.

A miscellaneous shower was held in the Boleskine Road home of Mrs. W. Udy. The guest of honor, her mother and grandmothers, Mrs. A. Costello and Mrs. M. Creighton received pink rose corsages.

Garden Notes

Prune for Blooms

M. V. CHESTNUT, FILES

One question that turns up with remarkable regularity in my mail is how to get a Wisteria to bloom. I can't say I welcome these letters, for nine times out of ten, the lack of bloom is due to incorrect pruning, and explaining the pruning of this vine involves writing a three-page letter!

Many gardeners never prune at all, with the result that their vines become a tangled mass of more or less flowerless growth. Others prune in the spring, and this treatment encourages the emergence of side shoots which are too green and sappy to bloom. In the one case the display is spoiled by complete inattention; in the other there is misapplied zeal.

If you examine your Wisteria carefully, you will see that from the main branches there arise quite a number of side shoots which have grown out this year. These are the potential flower-bearers, and they are receiving the richest sap the plant can supply, but this is not enough. If you leave them alone, these sub-branches will continue to elongate themselves right through to the end of the growing season, when none of them will contain the smallest amount of mature sap.

Nor will the dormant buds in the leaf joints be well enough stocked with reserve food to guarantee a single chain of bloom next year. Our job, therefore, is to exercise some control over this lush growth and to give these shoots, in the time that remains to them, an opportunity to mature their sap and stock up the dormant buds with reserve material.

First thing to do is to assess the vigor of the individual side shoots before you start pruning them. They will divide roughly into two classes—highly vigorous and those of only medium vigor. The former must not be pruned quite as severely as the latter, for too-drastring pruning would start them into sprouting sub-shoots all over the place.

Prune each vigorous shoot halfway back to its base, and the not-so-vigorous two-thirds of the way back, in each case making your cut immediately above a leaf joint. This takes care of the side shoots for the time being. At the end of each main branch there is the current year's extension growth of the branch tip, similar in appearance to the side shoots, but quite different in function.

This tip is known as a leader, and its business is to provide for the normal extension of your vine. This main branch tip should be allowed to push forward without any pruning at all until the vine has covered all its allotted space on the trellis or wall.

This summer pruning is an intermediate stage. Early next March, each of these summer-pruned side shoots should be shortened to within two eyes from its base. This should do the trick, and providing the vine's drainage and nutrition are satisfactory, your Wisteria should cover itself with a mass of lovely bloom chains.

As with all wall-trained plants, you will probably find a limited number of deformed fore-and-aft shoots—shoots which are trying to grow toward the wall or directly away from it. These shoots are useless for our purpose and should be cut away entirely.

SHEILAH GRAHAM Follows the Stars to Rome

Jayne Picks Next Husband

ROME (NANA)—Jayne Mansfield has reached the big decision. This my educated guess that when Jayne and family return within a few days to California, she will reactivate her divorce against Mickey Hargitay. And his successor is already picked out—dynamic Enrique Bomba, production assistant in Jayne's present movie here, "Panic Button."

Jayne, blonde, beautiful and all aglow, is making a clean sweep in her professional as well as personal life. She has switched agents and she will live in Italy. Hargitay is so jealous of Bomba that, to appease him, Ron Gorton, producer of "Panic Button," made the gesture of banning Bomba for two days from the set.

Leading ladies Jayne and Eleanor have not been too friendly... while veteran Maurice Chevalier strives to keep the peace.

I'm sorry for Judy Garland, but sorer for the producers of the picture she started in London... which brings me automatically to Marilyn Monroe. I questioned writer-producer George Axelrod in Paris as to whether he still wanted Marilyn to co-star with Frank Sinatra in his production, "How to Murder Your Wife." "I'll first have to find out if Marilyn is insurable," said George.

The only one who seems completely unperturbed by the horrendous events of the fantastic "Cleo" production is producer Walter Wanger who smiles vaguely, talks vaguely when questioned about the $32,000,000 expense of the movie, and who will receive 10 per cent of the profits from "Cleopatra." Elizabeth's ten per cent is of the gross... There is usually a party at the end of a picture, for the cast and crew. But when I asked, "Will there be a party at the end of 'Cleopatra'?" I was told "the party is over."

Flight to Egypt For 'Cleo' Lovers

ROME (NANA)—Elizabeth Taylor is finished with Cleopatra now—but she's a long way from being through with Marc Antony.

That is 20th Century-Fox's big headache right now. Today—or Wednesday—Richard Burton, Liz's screen lover and off-screen constant cavalier, is flying to Egypt for final location scenes, and Liz insists she's going along, though her part in the picture is all wrapped up and "in the can."

The studio heads are worried that her presence in Egypt may stir up incidents or demonstrations.

Burton is not apt to oppose any plans Liz makes. The fact is, their romance is hotter than ever, though a divorce from his wife, Sybil still seems doubtful.

After Egypt, Richard and Liz are going to Switzerland together. She and her then-husband Edlie Fisher bought a villa there, which Liz has not seen as yet. Besides a home, it's a tax haven for her $2,000,000 Cleopatra movie salary. Burton has his own place near by, but the betting is that wherever Liz hangs her hat, Burton will spend most of his time there.

Their servants and secretaries have already gone to Switzerland to open the premises and prepare things. Tons of costly antique furniture owned by Liz are being shipped there.

In March, the two will attend the New York premiere of the "Cleopatra" movie—together.

Remember Wall-to-Wall Newspapers?

Never Too Old to Use

By SAM LEVENSON

I stopped at a newsstand about noon the other day and asked for "this morning's paper." The owner and his dog both growled at me. "We don't have old papers."

At that moment I became sorrowfully aware of the brief span of life of a daily newspaper—on the average, 12 hours, from about 9 a.m. to 12 noon—then forgotten, like a lady of the evening, or the morning, depending on the edition.

I remember an earlier era when newspapers like old generals didn't die, they didn't even fade away. They went to work—like everybody else. Newspapers in those days were not just read, they were utilized. May I remind the dear reader?

After the mistress of the house had washed the wooden floors, she covered them with newspaper. We had wall-to-wall newspaper. How many times did I come home from school to find my poor, tired mother stretched out on the floor—reading an editorial.

Kitchen shelves were covered with newspaper. Imaginative mothers like mine could create a scalloped edge with little dips every few inches, utilizing headlines for educational as well as dramatic effect, like: Price of Food Goes Up—Think!

The rotogravure section was selected for the bureau drawer because its brownish-red color matched our genuine-imitation mahogany.

The bottom drawer was known as the Maternity Ward. When our cat was expecting (again), Mama shredded a newspaper with her meat chopper and padded the drawer. Women understand such things. At our house kittens could read before they could walk.

I inherited most of my hats from older brothers, uncles and forgetful strangers. The size was reduced to fit my head by folding a strip of newspaper under the inside leather band. It was not unusual for me to remove my hat and find imprinted on my youthful forehead the words "Cloudy and Foggy."

Party hats were fashioned of cleverly folded newspaper, as were general hats and Chinese hats, and chape hats, and kings' crowns, and sailboats, and shaggy trees, and bandits' masks, and rain-hats, and megaphones, and telescopes, and flyswatters.

A hand-rolled short, fat strip of newspaper served as a cork for medicine bottles and wine bottles as well as a packing for keyholes when privacy was desired. (Poor people did not feel entitled to privacy. Keyholes were for looking, not for locking.)

We cut our school book covers out of newspaper. A child gifted with scissors could work it out so that a photo-picture would appear smack right on the front of the book—inspiring pictures like Dillinger coming out of the movies, or Bernard McFadden napping in the snow.

Garbage was gift-wrapped in newspaper. In poorer neighborhoods, the tabloids, in richer neighborhoods the Herald Tribune.

Dogs were taught human manners via newspapers. The distaff side of the family cut newspaper into dress patterns for formal dresses the society page, for sports wear the used-car section.

If any parts of the newspaper survived, they were stored in the cellar for months and finally sold to the junk dealer who sold the lot to the newspaper publisher—all of which proves that the printed word is indestructible. To Ra!

Major Pay Boost Urged For B.C. Civil Servants

Major pay increases for B.C. civil servants were recommended yesterday by a board of reference.

The three-man board suggested in its unanimous, non-binding report that the government should bring wages to parity with private enterprise and municipal service.

It was estimated such pay boosts would amount to several million dollars for the 17,000 government employees, 3,000 of whom are in the Victoria area.

Senior civil servants were granted 5 to 10 per cent pay increases April 1 this year. But the increases were considerably less than gains sought by the B.C. Government Employees' Association, which appealed to the board of reference.

BCGEA officials considered the board's finding a major victory for the employees. If approved by the treasury board, it will bring additional increases of 2 to 16 per cent to the April increase, they said.

The board of reference report will go before the provincial treasury board for consideration. Premier Bennett, chairman of the treasury board, was on holiday and not available for comment.

The report was submitted by Dr. H. F. Angus, head of the Public Utilities Commission, who served as chairman of the board of reference, and board members W. H. Sands, deputy labor minister representing the government, and T. A. Dohm, Vancouver lawyer representing the BCGEA.

While not setting specific wage levels in outside jobs to be followed in drawing the wage line, the report said that government employees should receive the same wages as paid by "good employers" outside the provincial service.

It also recommended that the proposed increases, if accepted by the treasury board, should be retroactive to the Civil Service Commission's April 1 wage adjustment.

Local government employee officials were happy with the report.

N. T. Richards, president of the Victoria branch of the BCGEA, said "we are pleased with the recommendations of the board of reference and hope the government will accept and apply them in good faith."

"We also feel that implementation of the recommendations will improve employee relations with the government," he said.

Clare Clendenning, secretary of the Victoria employees group, said news of the report "was quite a thrill. We hope it follows through."

General secretary E. P. O'Connor of Vancouver said "this recommendation is quite satisfactory to the employees association."

He said that wages would no longer be a controversial matter if the recommendation of the board is accepted by the government and applied in good faith.

He announced Saturday that arrangements for the convention were complete and about 500 delegates representing unions across the province were expected.

The agenda, he said yesterday, will be made up from resolutions submitted before the convention by groups affiliated with the federation.

On board the schooner when she left Chester were two Thiergartens of Campbell River, B.C., and Bill Johnson of England.

A search along the Atlantic seaboard began Saturday when Chester residents did not hear from the craft.

United Air Lines charged Monday the Federal Aviation Agency was partly to blame for history's worst air disaster—a two-plane collision over New York City Dec. 16, 1960.

United asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to make new findings. It charged acts and omissions of the FAA contributed to the accident, which cost 134 lives.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Civil Aeronautics Board has extended until Aug. 1 the deadline for airlines operating in both the United States and Canada to set new fares taking into account the devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

OTTAWA (UPI)—For the first time in the 31-year history of the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs an interprovincial exchange program, will be launched in 1963. Each province will send nine boys and girls between 16 and 21 to spend two weeks with farm families in the other nine provinces.

ROME (AP)—United States narcotics agents said Monday they had helped Turkish police in seizing 1,034 pounds of opium—enough to have brought American dope pushers $7,000,000.

SAIGON (AP)—Three air crashes in 24 hours in South Viet Nam's guerrilla-infested jungles Monday left 26 dead, including four U.S. service men. Four more Americans were missing.

WHITNEY, Ont. (UPI)—A Scout troop from Kentucky, which had saved money for two years to go to camp, left Algonquin Park for home Monday following the drowning of one of its members.

Warren Hannah, 16, of Raceland, Ky., drowned Sunday when a canoe in which he was a passenger overturned in Lake Opeongo near here. The boy's father tried to save him but failed.

Island Cows Better

Two Vancouver Island Jersey cows have topped Jersey cows across Canada in their age groups in production of milk of good butterfat content during 305 days ending last June, according to records of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club.

Leading junior four-year-old is Dogwood Heritage Marie, owned by B. Hoole and Son, Victoria. She produced 10,163 pounds of milk of which 807 pounds or 3.7 per cent was butterfat. Marie earns the club's silver medal.

Arrowsmith Royal Valerie of Arrowsmith Farms, Qualicum, leads the junior three-year-olds with a silver medal record of 9,241 pounds of milk with 333 pounds, 3.77 per cent butterfat.

Sacred Losses Voting Right

CORNWALL — Mel Rowat, Social Credit candidate in Monday's Stormont election, didn't get to vote.

When he was about to cast his ballot, he was told by the deputy returning officer he did not satisfy residence requirements. He had been living elsewhere on the date April 13, when the election writ was issued.

Three cars were damaged and a driver charged when a high-speed chase through city streets ended in a crash of twisted metal at Rock Bay Avenue and John Street early today.

The chase had started when a prowler car saw the speeding car heading along Douglas Street for the Fountain Circle

Both Mrs. Erickson and Mr. Chapman declined to say what management is offering, although Mrs. Erickson said it is "very, very poor."

Old Men in Politics Tire World Youth

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Some 2,000 young socialists, representing 68 non-Communist groups in 33 countries, said Monday they are tired of the old men who dominate much of world politics.

The Socialist Youth International said: "Participation of our parents in the cold war produced power blocs. It is a mission of our generation to liquidate these."

Going Home To Tristan

LONDON (AP)—The homesick islanders of Tristan da Cunha say they'll make their own way back to their volcano-ravaged home if Britain won't take them there.

William Repetto, chief of the 264 islanders brought to Britain last November, said they plan to send an advance party of six men to Tristan.

SALCOMBE, England (CP)—Frogman David Langfield has bought a battleship for £20. It is the old battleship, Admiral Byng's flagship that went down off the Devon coast with 700 sailors on board, and legend says the crew's pay—in gold—is still aboard.

SEATTLE (AP)—Alweg International announced Monday plans have been completed for a $37,500,000 monorail extending 8.3 miles from the Tokyo international airport to downtown Tokyo. It will be finished in time for the 1964 Olympic games in Tokyo.

PARIS (AP)—The way was cleared Monday to give Communist China a voice but not a vote in a body sponsored by the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Tractor Runs Wild Knocks Down Two

NANAIMO — Lady Luck sent an unmanned tractor running amok yesterday, then smiled the other way and kept it from killing or seriously injuring three people or causing serious damage.

Following a series of flukes of almost Rubie Goldberg proportions, the tractor lurched forward and knocked down the two men who were trying to start it.

It ran over one, Bill Benson, who fell into a deep furrow, escaping the full weight of the machine but sustaining serious injury.

The tractor burst through a fence and rose garden and headed straight for Mrs. Edgar Bourke of Yellow Point, who seemed too frightened to get out of the way.

Benson got to his feet, chased the tractor, turned it away from Mrs. Bourke and the house and through the rose garden again. Finally he clambered on and stopped it.

What started the tractor? It stalled and Benson discovered the battery was dead.

He tried unsuccessfully to start it by putting it in gear and running it down a slope.

The other farmer, Frank Rice, came to help and connected the battery of his truck to the tractor battery, but

The jump wires on the tractor battery were too short, so the battery was lifted out of its case and rested on the clutch. Its weight disengaged the clutch.

The tractor was started. The men, forgetting the tractor was still in gear from Benson's first attempt to start it, lifted the battery, permitting the clutch to engage, and away went the tractor.

Steer Clear Of Debris Boats Told

Small boat operators have been advised by the department of transport to stay clear of the debris-strewn waters of Tahsis Canal, Hecate Channel and Esplanade Inlet at night.

All three areas are clogged with debris, deadheads and logs and are considered a menace to navigation.

Boats operating in these areas during daylight hours are advised to use extreme caution.

The DOT also advises surface firing trials will be carried out by Royal Canadian Navy units between 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. July 18, 19 and 20 in the Race Rocks-Trial Island areas.

When she was hit by a reversing pickup truck at Fort and Blanshard.

Search police and firemen said last night they have turned up nothing in their investigation of possible arson in a string of five brush fires in the municipality Saturday.

What we want is what we call sportsmanlike driving—more people having consideration for one another... and that doesn't apply just to tourists, but to everybody."

A man who worked as purser on the boats carrying fortune seekers to the Yukon gold fields from Seattle in 1898 will be buried in Colwood Burial Park tomorrow after funeral services in Haywards at 3:30 p.m.

Harry Phillips, 90, of Finlayson Arm Road, a Victoria resident since 1898, died here Sunday.

Canada's 10 premiers will be guests of Victoria city council at a civic luncheon in the Butchart Gardens Aug. 6. The provincial leaders will be in the city to attend an annual conference.

Victoria's Seventh-Day Adventists have exceeded by more than $20 their $750 quota of a hoped-for total of $1,000, 000 offering collected Saturday in Adventist churches in Canada and the U.S.

The Douglas Rotary Club will present a wax bath to the Victoria Arthritis and Rheumatism Society at the Arthritis Clinic in St. Joseph's Hospital, Wednesday at 3 p.m.

The $500 unit affords a great deal of relief from arthritis.

Kathleen A. Underwood, 71, of 340 Island Highway was released from St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday after being treated for minor injuries suffered when she fell.

Police found he had crutches, with which he can't walk far, and little money. He said he wanted to get to Victoria to get government action on a pension cheque which had been taken from him and cashed with a forged signature.

Wheelchair Pilgrimage To Victoria

NANAIMO—RCMP have investigated and sent on his way a 75-year-old man in a wheelchair who arrived here on the ferry from Vancouver early yesterday and swore he'd get to Victoria if he had to wheel himself all the way.

Police found he had crutches, with which he can't walk far, and little money. He said he wanted to get to Victoria to get government action on a pension cheque which had been taken from him and cashed with a forged signature.

Financial Crisis Too Long Hidden

Canada's financial crisis lost their production capacity should have been made public before the federal election June 18, Conservative MP George Chatterton said yesterday.

Hotel Union May Seek Conciliation

The union representing Empress Hotel employees has set a deadline when it will ask for a conciliation officer if agreement has not been reached in contract negotiations with the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Mrs. Rhoda Erickson, bargaining agent for the hotel employees, who are represented by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, declined last night to say when the deadline is.

Mr. Chatterton said the federal government's deficit financing used since 1958 was done to "prime the economy" of Canada.

"There are indications that the austerity measures, at least partially, had the desired effect and so far there does not appear to have been any adverse effect on the internal Canadian economy," he said.

"The first step towards devaluation occurred in the position of parliament in 1960. The policy of the Bank of Canada at this time was against inflation and that was not the danger..."

"It was at that time that the government of Canada, through Mr. Fleming's policies, started the pressure on the dollar, downwards."

"There are indications that the austerity measures, at least partially, had the desired effect and so far there does not appear to have been any adverse effect on the internal Canadian economy," he said.

I'll Try My Best —Taylor

TORONTO (CP)—Lord Taylor, on his way to advise the Saskatchewan government on the provincial medical care dispute, said Monday it will be difficult for him to be impartial but he will try his best.

Care Fight Goes On

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan government and many of the province's citizens Monday were stepping up efforts to counteract effects of a doctors' boycott of the provincial medical care plan.

In Saskatoon another flood of British doctors recruited by the government began registering for licenses to practice under the plan. (See also Page 5.)

OWN CLINIC
In a number of centres throughout the province, citizens were setting up their own co-

Watch Language Chiefs Tell CBC

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC has been told to watch its language.

The instructions are contained in a "good taste" policy for radio and TV drama, drawn up by the government-appointed CBC board of directors.

The policy, made public Monday in the annual CBC report, says the CBC should continue "avant garde" and other "special kind" of drama, but special consideration must be given to language.

NO EXAMPLES
The report did not cite examples but, last February, Conservative MP Edwin Brunson of Medicine Hat said he had received letters describing one program in the series Quest as "disgusting," "absolutely immoral" and "garbage."

This was the play Crowing Arnold.

The CBC said yesterday the experimental Quest series is likely to return in the fall at the same time, 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

Peru Cabinet Walks Out Over Crisis

LIMA (AP)—Premier Morayta Paz Saldan's cabinet resigned last night as a result of Peru's presidential election crisis.

One official said the nation's military chiefs would take over the government, probably today.

Moreyra announced the cabinet resignations after his second emergency meeting with President Manuel Prado in 24 hours.

FRAUD CLAIMED
An unconfirmed report said the cabinet quit in a body after Prado refused to annul the results of the June 10 presidential elections which the armed forces claimed were marred by fraud.

The nation's military leaders turned thumbs down on Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, leader of the popular revolutionary alliance, who was the top man in popular votes.

Churchill Out of Bed

LONDON (UPI)—Sir Winston Churchill is making such satisfactory progress he has been allowed out of bed to sit in a chair, a hospital bulletin said Monday.

The hospital announced no further bulletin will be issued until Friday. There are no immediate plans for Churchill to go home.

Macbeth Too Gory?

SWANSEA, Wales (CP)—A film company's invitation to school children to see a movie of Macbeth was turned down by the Swansea education committee. A member said the famous work was "full of blood and thunder," and Shakespeare wrote it "after a thick night."

De Gaulle Backed By Parliament In A-Force Bid

PARIS (Reuters)—President de Gaulle early Monday won a parliamentary victory in favor of his policy of developing an independent French nuclear deterrent.

After a debate in the National Assembly that lasted until nearly 1 a.m., a motion of censure against the government's nuclear policy was defeated.

LITTLE SHORT
A total of 206 deputies voted for the motion of censure—35 short of the majority needed to pass it.

Before the vote was taken, Premier Georges Pompidou made a full-scale defense of a French nuclear strike force, describing it as a service to NATO and France's Western European allies.

NOT CRITICIZED
Answering charges that an independent French deterrent would be a danger to the NATO alliance, Pompidou said both the United States and Britain had their own deterrent and were not criticized for it.

"Far from weakening the alliance," Pompidou said, "it will strengthen it by its existence and by the fact that it will be controlled by a country exposed to the first danger."

On the question of a nuclear test-ban treaty, being considered separately by a three-nation subcommittee of the conference, Zorin also conceded nothing.

HOPE FOR
Following Saturday's hint by chief American Delegate Arthur Dean that the West might drop its insistence on control points on Soviet territory, hopes had risen that the Soviet Union, too, might make concessions and a test moratorium could be agreed on.

The Soviet modifications, involving only the Soviet draft treaty for general and complete disarmament of March 15, included a number of concessions to the American draft treaty.

Zorin told the conference the Soviet Union now was willing to accept the U.S. position on the gradual reduction of conventional weapons.

Another arrival at the western Algerian city was Col. Houari Boumedienne, who has flooded Premier Ben Khedda's recent order dismantling him as chief of staff of the 40,000-man national liberation army.

Arrival of the two leaders in Tlemcen came as the political battle here reached the boiling point, with both sides calling crisis meetings Monday night.

Meanwhile, the provisional government's Information Minister Mohammed Yassid said secret meetings were continuing between chiefs of the six politico-military commands which now wield most of the power in independent Algeria.

An informed source close to Ben Bella said in Tlemcen that if Ben Bella's faction came to power the Franco-Moslem pact might be scrapped.

Marina Estate For Qualicum Unique in B.C.

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Outdoor Editor

The 105-acre Little Qualicum River estuary is being revamped in a $3,500,000 estate development, unique in this province, which will see dredging of a lagoon and canal system to be fronted by 258 homes.

Each home will have facilities to bring a small cruiser right to the doorstep. A shopping centre and secluded resort hotel are to be included in later stages of development.

ALREADY ON SALE
First lots in the new Qualicum Marine Properties development went on sale last weekend and already some of the road system has been blacktopped.

The project is being planned in three stages. First will be development of 21 large beachfront lots.

Second and third stages call for development of additional beachfront, a marina for 200 boats in the lagoon and development of riverfront and lagoon homesites.

There already is a freshwater lagoon on the 105-acre property, but plans call for it to be enlarged by the dredging of a winding canal system, entering from the Little Qualicum River and with a control lock on the beach side of the canal.

The project has been approved by the fisheries department.

Beachfront homesites will stretch over a mile of beach and there will be nearly two miles of freshwater canal frontage, plus half a mile of river frontage.

TWO BRIDGES
Bridges will cross the canal at at least two points and the development will extend upstream almost to the Little Qualicum highway bridge.

It will cover some of the island's finest cutthroat trout and steelhead waters and will be adjacent to Qualicum's well-known oho fishing waters.

Marine services and overnight accommodations are planned adjacent to the marina and separated from residential areas. Other planned facilities include a shopping centre and resort hotel.

San Francisco money is behind the project and San Francisco investment broker Barney Marshall is president of the developing Qualicum Marine Properties Ltd.

Consulting engineers and planners are Robertson, Kilbians, Tuvnan and Gallaugh of Vancouver.

Frank Ney's Nanaimo Realty is agent for the unique estate development.

Street Policy

Saanich Starts Fight for Light

Saanich council last night adopted a new street lighting policy and immediately launched a program aimed at reducing the municipality's main illumination problems.

From now on, council will initiate street lighting by local improvement, on an area basis instead of street-by-street. Residents will pay by 10-year local improvement the cost of the equivalent of a residential quality of lighting. The annual charge will be about $7 a lot.

CADBORO BAY
After adopting this measure, council approved its use in the Cadboro Bay area. The project will cost 212 property owners a total of $12,107.10.

Lighting will be installed on portions of Cadboro Bay Road, Killarney Road, Sinclair Road, Fernyng Street, Arbuthnot Road and Quennanwood Drive, and all of Killarney Place, Pitcombe Place, Kilgory Place, Maynard Street, Scotland Road, Hobbs Street and Rowley Road.

Council also approved municipal engineer Neville Life's proposals for $15,000 expenditure from this year's budget for three projects.

They included $1,730 for lighting of dangerous intersections on the Patricia Bay Highway at Vanalman, the Trans-Canada Highway at Wilkinson and Grange, Saanich Road at Verdon and Douglas Street at Bole-ski and Ouldrith.

OBSCURE LIGHTS
Also $1,740 for replacement of obsolete lights on Cadboro Bay Road, Arbuthnot at Finnelly and Gordon Road, Mount Douglas Park and Cordova Bay Road at Waiwaka.

Third project was the re-lighting of main roads with $11,800 from the corporation and $17,550 by local improvement.

SITES NAMED
This would include Tillicum from Gore to the Trans-Canada, Quadra from Stoba Lane to Reynolds, Cedar Hill from Road from Shelbourne to Brae-ford, Shelbourne from North Dairy to Cedar Hill Cross Road, Richmond from Newton to North Boundary, and Cadboro Bay Road from Sinclair to Maynard.

"With the installation of this lighting, the municipality will have made a substantial start in illuminating the most travelled major roads," said Mr. Life.

Saanich will use mercury vapor lights because of low maintenance costs and their ability to cast a beam instead of just a diffused glow, he said.

He tried unsuccessfully to start it by putting it in gear and running it down a slope.

Benson got to his feet, chased the tractor, turned it away from Mrs. Bourke and the house and through the rose garden again. Finally he clambered on and stopped it. What started the tractor?

It stalled and Benson discovered the battery was dead.

Taking short route across Butte Lake at crack of dawn are three deer — two bucks and doe — which chose to swim, rather than walk around 21-mile-long lake. ### Probes Set In Deaths

Inquiries will be held into the deaths of a 39-year-old woman Friday and a nine-week-old boy Sunday.

Mrs. V. H. Joy, 1287 Filmer, died in a psychiatrist's office Friday evening. Cause of death was unknown.

Rona Rasmussen, 150 Linden, was dead in his home apparently of natural causes, when a fire department investigator arrived Sunday morning.

Three-Week Bingo Flatly Denied Here

The B.C. bingo ban boiled up again yesterday as an official of the attorney-general's department flatly denied a report that bingo games held every three weeks were legal.

"At the moment we are interested in those organizations that are operating bi-weekly or more often because the great bulk of them fall into that category," the spokesman said.

THEN ILLEGAL
"But if bingo is held on the third Thursday each month, for instance, or every third Thursday it is illegal."

Point at issue is a section of the Criminal Code of Canada which permits "occasional" bingo games.

"The courts have held that if bingo is played bi-weekly it is not occasional," the official said. "If it is played less often than bi-weekly we would have to take a look at it."

The official added RCMP will attend a number of bingo games throughout the province within the next three weeks to warn operators of the criminal code provision.

"We are hoping that by the first week of August all groups will have been warned and will have made an attempt to operate within the law."

Club Picnic Slated

Langford 50 and Up Club will hold a picnic at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Saanichton, Wednesday.

Members will meet at Cade Memorial Hall at 11 a.m.

seeing trip which is to last 30 days and nights.

The trip actually started at the Swartz Bay ferry terminal a few days ago. We met there to board a ferry to the mainland and our special train waiting in Vancouver.

Mary Young nearly missed the boat when her family's car had a flat tire on the Patricia Bay Highway. Passing motorists, who turned out to be Kirk Davis and Rick Stokes, gave her a lift, thus saving the day.

Other Districts Short

Teaching Staffs Filled for Fall

Greater Victoria schools will have a full complement of 832 teachers this September despite a shortage which to date has left many B.C. districts with classrooms without teachers.

Last night's school board meeting was told there are to be 31 additional teachers employed this fall. There are to be six additional senior high teachers and 35 extra in elementary schools.

JUNIOR HIGH DROP
These figures are offset by the fact that junior high schools, which recently have lost many Grade 7 classes to elementary schools, will employ 12 fewer teachers in the district than last year.

A record enrolment of slightly more than 24,000 pupils is expected this fall.

Joseph Chell, assistant district superintendent, reported to the board on the shortage of applications from teachers seeking jobs in the district.

Said Mr. Chell: "We did a bit of checking and found that this is due in large measure to changes in teacher qualification regulations."

Mr. Chell said whereas teachers with two years' college qualified for the permanent elementary basic certificates, this now takes three years.

District superintendent of schools John Gough said authorities in many other school districts in B.C. reported they have not been able to obtain all the teachers they require for September.

SPECIAL CLASSES
All vacancies in Victoria have been filled in local schools, but there is still a shortage of teachers for special classes.

The superintendent reported a total of 19 Grade 7 classes will function in elementary schools this September. This is roughly one-third of the total that must be moved out of junior high schools to comply with a recommendation of the Chant Commission.

A total of seven occupational classes will be held next year in the five junior high schools.

Trustees last night approved establishment of two additional special classes for youngsters with IQs lower than the average.

There are also two classes for New Canadian children and a visiting teacher service for sick children.

Coun. Robert Chard said, "I think weekly garbage collection is one of the marvels of the modern age." Previous occupants of his home left so much behind that "I've been 10 years hauling it out of the bush."

REFERENDUM SET
Council, unable to agree on any course of action, decided to put the question of weekly service to the ratepayers in the form of referendum in December.

Only opposing vote to the referendum motion was cast by Coun. Ostler.

Summer School Swings

Summer school classes are in full swing with almost 1,000 students in attendance.

MUSIC SCHOOL
At Victoria High School 353 members of school bands and orchestras are taking instruction in instrumental music.

It is the 14th year of the summer music school which students attend voluntarily and pay a $5 fee to help defray expenses.

Last night's school board meeting was told the program "is almost self-supporting."

ACADEMIC CLASSES
Another 619 students are attending academic summer classes held daily at Oak Bay Junior High School.

Now in its seventh year of operation, this program allows students who have failed one or two Grade 9 courses to get the credits they need for full promotion to Grade 10 in September.

District superintendent John Gough said fees paid by students cover the entire cost of the summer school operation.

Grade 5 Swims Set High Mark

A little more than 70 per cent of the Grade 5 pupils taking part in Greater Victoria school board's swimming program met maximum requirements for the course, trustees were told last night.

A total of 931 pupils from 18 elementary schools in the district received eight weeks of instruction. They were divided into classes for beginners, junior or intermediate.

Of those who tried the tests in their respective divisions, 619—70.5 per cent—met maximum requirements; another 250 met the minimum standards set by Red Cross water safety officials; and only 38—4.4 per cent—failed.

Twenty teachers took an active part in the program, assisting two full-time and three part-time Red Cross instructors.

Farmers Impatient

DUNCAN — Farmers here are getting impatient with the provincial agricultural department which had promised establishment of an animal pathological laboratory at Abbotsford several years ago.

Farmers in general feel the two pathological laboratories at the UBC operated by the two senior governments are too small to fill the needs of agricultural operations in B.C.

At the last meeting of the Cowichan Agricultural Society William Barker, secretary, was advised to write Frank Richter, provincial minister of agriculture, asking him about the progress made on the laboratory project.

Directors of the society were told that, according to rumors, the proposed laboratory had been dropped by Mr. Richter's predecessor.

The directors felt rather than accept unconfirmed reports they should approach the agricultural minister who supposedly had promised to carry out the project after he had taken office. Mr. Barker said Monday, the need for a pathological laboratory for animals is increasing steadily.

Friends Rally to Aid House Fire Victims

ALBERNI — Friends and neighbors have rallied around a Sprout Lake family left homeless by a fire Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Gassner and their three little daughters have received donations of clothing as well as enough furnishings to set up housekeeping in a trailer near the site of the Faber Road home which went up in flames.

The family, which includes

Lorraine, 6, Lynn, 4, and Tina, 2, had only the light summer clothing they were wearing when the fire struck.

The Gassners spent the next few days at the home of friends of long standing, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lewis, Sprout Lake Road, moving to the trailer Monday.

Neighbors have organized a work bee to start building a house for the Gassners.

In the lobby of the Chateau Laurier several Ottawa citizens got the shock of their lives when the quiet was shattered by jangling of an alarm clock.

Maureen Fanthorpe was carrying the clock to remind her of train departure time.

Paintings in the national gallery were of special interest to Murray Smith and Jim Cory while Kathy Lenden, Wendy Burdon, Doug Davies and Douglas Bates signed the visitors' book at Government House.

At Winnipeg, a mixup in railroads almost stranded Barb Middleton and Ginny Ambrey. They asked to be directed to the CPR station—we were travelling CNR.

In Ottawa we had a longer stopover and took in all the sights including a tour of the parliament buildings. Dave Altan, Cameron Croll and Robbie Dunn climbed the Peace Tower.

by the city and to mark our imminent entry to Quebec we had French Canadian pea soup for lunch.

In Montreal we met an expert of French Canada we hadn't expected. As we all agreed against a red light Montreal drivers honked their horns and shook their fists at us.

One Montrealer wanted to know if the tour group was "all one big French family." Derek Melville was baffled by an answer with a little "bon" when he asked: "Do you speak English?" The boy replied in perfect English: "No, I don't."

We all travelled by bus to Darnley where we spent our last parties and boarded two planes for the Atlantic flight. The flight was uneventful.

Angler Found Dead

CAMPBELL RIVER — The body of Jack Adams, 54, a fisherman, was found yesterday after the 35-foot trawler in which he had been riding was found off McMillen Point, 10 miles north of here, with no one aboard.

John Humphries of the local Search and Rescue unit and the RCMP boat Massett investigated when the boat was noticed yesterday, apparently adrift, off the point with the navigation lights still on but the motor not running.

Adams rented the boat, the Cape Isle, from Armour Samsbrook of Campbell River and left here Sunday night.

Dr. N. B. Hall will conduct an inquest.

Three People Escape

Tractor Amok

NANAIMO — Lady Luck sent an unmanned tractor running amok yesterday, then smiled the other way and kept it from killing or seriously injuring three people or causing serious damage.

Following a series of flukes of almost Rube Goldberg proportions, the tractor lurched forward and knocked down the two men who were trying to start it.

It ran over one, Bill Benson, who fell into a deep furrow, escaping the full weight of the machine but sustaining serious injury.

The tractor burst through a fence and rose garden and headed straight for Mrs. Edgar Bourke of Yellow Point.

It stalled and Benson discovered the battery was dead.

He tried unsuccessfully to start it by putting it in gear and running it down a slope.

The other farmer, Frank Rice, came to help and connected the battery of his truck to the tractor battery, but

The jump wires on the tractor battery were too short, so the battery was lifted out of its case and rested on the clutch. Its weight disengaged the clutch.

The tractor was started. The men, forgetting the tractor was still in gear from Benson's first attempt to start it, lifted the battery, permitting the clutch to engage, and Away went the tractor, who seemed too frightened to get out of the way.

Benson got to his feet, chased the tractor, turned it away from Mrs. Bourke and the house and through the rose garden again. Finally he clambered on and stopped it. What started the tractor?

Wheelchair Pilgrimage To Victoria

NANAIMO—RCMP have investigated and sent on his way a 75-year-old man in a wheelchair who arrived here on the ferry from Vancouver early yesterday and swore he'd get to Victoria if he had to wheel himself all the way.

Police found he had crutches, with which he can't walk far, and little money. He said he wanted to get to Victoria to get government action on a pension cheque which had been taken from him and cashed with a forged signature.

After hours of staring at the grey Atlantic far below—the flight from Montreal to London took 11 hours—the green hills and neat fields were a wonderful sight.

After refuelling at London Airport we took off again for a short flight to Brussels. From there it was a six-hour bus trip to Paris and the real start of our European sightseeing trip which is to last 30 days and nights.

The trip actually started at the Swartz Bay ferry terminal a few days ago. We met there to board a ferry to the mainland and our special train waiting in Vancouver.

Mary Young nearly missed the boat when her family's car had a flat tire on the Patricia Bay Highway. Passing motorists, who turned out to be Kirk Davis and Rick Stokes, gave her a lift, thus saving the day.

On the train trip east most of us rose early to enjoy the

I'll Try My Best —Taylor

TORONTO (CP)—Lord Taylor, on his way to advise the Saskatchewan government on the provincial medical care dispute, said Monday it will be difficult for him to be impartial but he will try his best.

Care Fight Goes On

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan government and many of the province's citizens Monday were stepping up efforts to counteract effects of a doctors' boycott of the provincial medical care plan.

OWN CLINICS

In Saskatoon another flood of British doctors recruited by the government began registering for licences to practise under the plan. (See also Page 5.) In a number of centres throughout the province, citizens were setting up their own co-ops.

GOOD OR BAD

"I might give them good advice or bad advice, but it will be straight advice," he said. He added he hopes to "chat" with the doctors. "If I can help the doctors in any way at all I will do so but that's up to them." He said the doctors had made no move to contact him. Lord Taylor said he had read the Medical Care Act in London and felt then it was not too restrictive. However, he added he is anxious to study the situation on the spot.

Watch Language Chiefs Tell CBC

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC has been told to watch its dramatic language.

The instructions are contained in a "good taste" policy for radio and TV drama, drawn up by the government-appointed CBC board of directors.

The policy, made public Monday in the annual CBC report, says the CBC should continue "avant garde" and other "special kind" of drama, but special consideration must be given to language.

NO EXAMPLES

The report did not cite examples but, last February, Conservative MP Edwin Brunton of Medicine Hat said he had received letters describing one program in the series Quest as "disgusting," "absolutely immoral" and "garbage." This was the play Crawling Arnold.

The CBC said yesterday the experimental Quest series likely would return in the fall at the same time, 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

Peru Cabinet Walks Out Over Crisis

LIMA (AP)—Premier Moraya Pas Saldan's cabinet resigned last night as a result of Peru's presidential election crisis.

One official said the nation's military chiefs would take over the government, probably today. Moraya announced the cabinet resignations after his second emergency meeting with President Manuel Prado in 24 hours.

FRAUD CLAIMED

An unconfirmed report said the cabinet quit in a body after Prado refused to annul the results of the June 10 presidential elections which the armed forces claimed were marred by fraud. The nation's military leaders turned thumbs down on victor Raul Haya de la Torre, leader of the popular revolutionary alliance, who was the top man in popular votes.

Churchill Out of Bed

LONDON (UPI)—Sir Winston Churchill is making such satisfactory progress he has been allowed out of bed to sit in a chair, a hospital bulletin said Monday.

The hospital announced no further bulletin will be issued until Friday. There are no immediate plans for Churchill to go home.

Macbeth Too Gory?

SWANSEA, Wales (CP)—A film company's invitation for school children to see a movie of Macbeth was turned down by the Swansea education committee. A member said the famous work was "full of blood and thunder," and Shakespeare wrote it "after a thick night."

De Gaulle Backed By Parliament In A-Force Bid

PARIS (Reuters)—President de Gaulle early Monday won a parliamentary victory in favor of his policy of developing an independent French nuclear deterrent.

After a debate in the National Assembly that lasted until nearly 1 a.m., a motion of censure against the government's nuclear policy was defeated.

LITTLE SHORT

A total of 205 deputies voted for the motion of censure—35 short of the majority needed to pass it. Before the vote was taken, Premier Georges Pompidou made a full-scale defense of a French nuclear strike force, describing it as a service to NATO and France's Western European allies.

NOT CRITICIZED

Answering charges that an independent French deterrent would be a danger to the NATO alliance, Pompidou said both the United States and Britain had their own deterrent and were not criticized for it. "Far from weakening the alliance," Pompidou said, "it will strengthen it by its existence and by the fact that it will be controlled by a country exposed to the first danger."

'Don't Fence Varsity With High-Rise Wall'

VICTORIA (UPI)—Victoria University would be party near the Gordon Head campus for high-rise apartment use. The alumni executive feels such developments would detract from the natural beauty of the university and eventually result in a general commercialization of the area, he said in a letter to Saanich council, read at last night's meeting.

STORMONT GRIT EDGES OUT TORY

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Lawyer Lucien Lamoureux won Stormont riding for the Liberals Monday with a scant 92-vote margin over Grant Campbell, seeking re-election for the Conservatives.

Mr. Campbell announced immediately that he will seek a recount.

The other two candidates in the four-way contest, Mel Rowat of Social Credit and Mrs. Marjorie Ball of the New Democratic Party, trailed far behind.

FINAL FIGURES

Final figures from the 139 polls: Mr. Lamoureux 11,661; Mr. Campbell 11,569; Mr. Rowat 1,297; Mrs. Ball 970.

The Stormont voting was deferred from June 18 when the rest of Canada voted because Albert Lavigne, Liberal nominee, died after nominations had been held.

REDUCE PLURALITY

Monday's result reduced the PC's plurality over the Liberals in the 25-seat Parliament to 16 seats. The standings: PC 116, Liberal 100, Social Credit 30, NDP 18.

The Burnaby-Coquitlam seat in British Columbia, won by Erhart Regier, NDP, June 18 became vacant Monday when Mr. Regier resigned to make possible a byelection in which T. C. Douglas, NDP leader, will seek election to Parliament.

Monday's winner was executive assistant to Lionel Chevrier, transport minister in the St. Laurent Liberal administration. Mr. Chevrier, who sat for Stormont for 19 years in the House of Commons, now represents Montreal-Laurier.

"I don't believe it," was Mr. Lamoureux' first comment after hearing the result. He added: "It makes me feel very good." Mr. Campbell, also a lawyer, had no immediate comment except to say he will seek a recount.

TOUGH BATTLE

The election was a battle between Mr. Lamoureux and Mr. Campbell from the counting of the first poll. The lead changed hands several times, with neither candidate ever having a sizable margin over the other.

FIGURES FINAL

Apart from possible changes in a recount, Monday's figures are final since there is no separate service vote in deferred elections or by-elections.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Senator G. S. Thompson, national president of the Progressive Conservative party, said Monday he was "not wholly unhappy with the result" in Stormont.

The Manitoba senator said "I believe that the strong support given the Conservative candidate in this ordinarily hostile area proves that the government program since June 18 is meeting with generally favorable response in Canada."

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Leader Pearson said Monday night the party victory in the deferred Stormont election is a "further condemnation of the Dietschbacher government and it emphasizes the absolute necessity of that government, which is a minority government, calling Parliament together immediately."

RED DEER (CP)—National Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson said Monday night he was "not dissatisfied at all" with the party's showing.

Troop Cost Cut by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary McNamara launched a drive Monday to slash the overseas drain on the United States dollar by another $500,000,000 a year without cutting U.S. fighting power abroad.

Geneva Parley

Soviets Claim Goodwill Act

GENEVA (Reuters)—The Soviet Union modified its draft disarmament treaty Monday in an "act of goodwill" that Western delegates said conceded no major point.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin told the 17-nation disarmament conference here that his "additions and clarifications," which affected only conventional weaponry, met "the position of the Western powers in a number of important questions halfway." He said he hoped the West would react by agreeing speedily on a treaty.

POSITION INTACT

But Western spokesmen pointed out that the modifications left intact the Soviet position that all nuclear weapon delivery vehicles must be destroyed and all foreign military bases dismantled in the first stage of disarmament.

On the question of a nuclear test-ban treaty, being considered separately by a three-nation subcommittee of the conference, Zorin also conceded nothing.

HOPE FOR

Following Saturday's hint by chief American delegate Arthur Dean that the West might drop its insistence on control points on Soviet territory, hopes had risen that the Soviet Union, too, might make concessions and a test moratorium could be agreed on.

The Soviet modifications, involving only the Soviet draft treaty for general and complete disarmament of March 15, included a number of concessions to the American draft treaty. Zorin told the conference the Soviet Union now was willing to accept the U.S. position on the gradual reduction of conventional weapons.

Oxygen Lack Kills Balloon Monkeys After Canada Trip

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (UPI)—Two rhesus monkeys and four hamsters, sent on a 25-mile-high balloon ride to help pave the way for a manned trip to the moon, were found dead Monday after their capsules parachuted to earth in a Canadian swamp.

Scientists from the aeronautical laboratory in Sunnyvale, Calif., said the animals died because of failure of the "life support system" that included control of their oxygen supply and temperature.

LACK OF OXYGEN

They said the animals might have died from lack of oxygen or freezing. They hoped to determine the exact cause, and the reason for the malfunction, in studies at Goose Bay, Labrador.

The 1,920-mile flight beneath a balloon 300 feet wide and 304 feet tall was the first of five planned to check the effects of cosmic radiation on future moon travellers.

SECOND FLIGHT

The second flight had been planned for Thursday, starting from Goose Bay, but an AMES spokesman said it might be delayed until studies of the first flight are completed.

The next flight was to carry two more monkeys and four hamsters, immature flower beetles, plus material for "additional biological experiments," he said.

MAKE SURE

"We want to learn from this one, and make sure it doesn't happen again," said Brad Evans of AMES. "The capsules with the animals and the instruments are being flown to Goose Bay and will be analyzed there. The first thing we are concerned with is the cause of death."

The animals were doomed in every event. The brains of the monkeys were to be sectioned into 15,000 ultra-thin slivers in check for cosmic ray damage. The hamsters were to be checked for changes in their reproductive cells.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it was the most extensive radiation research program ever conducted by high altitude balloons.

Caucus Stated

ROUYN, Que. (CP)—René Caouette, deputy national Social Credit party leader, said Monday night the 36 Spiced Commons members elected in the June 18 federal election will hold a caucus in Ottawa Aug. 17-18.

B.C. Cool Over Bridge Dirge

VANCOUVER (CP)—A folk under construction in June, song about Vancouver's Second Narrows Bridge (tragedy) is rising to the top of the hit B.C. and Vancouver radio stations in all parts of the U.S. and Canada—except B.C.

The song, Steel Men, tells how 18 steelworkers died when the bridge collapsed while record in B.C. for Columbia Records said: "We believe the record might be fine for every where else in Canada but not here."

"We understand the record is enjoying good sales everywhere else but we have no intention of pushing it here," Local radio stations played Vancouverites.
